

CATTLE DISEASES FATAL TO W. H. PEABODY'S COWS

Dr. Cahill Explains Uncommon Ground Germ Disease That Generally Proves Fatal to Cattle

A ground germ disease that has been more prevalent than usual in different parts of the state, and that is fatal to cattle has found its way to this section. William H. Peabody of Pelham having lost six young cattle that were pastured in East Dracont. Other cattle supposed to have been affected have been examined and are said not to be suffering from the disease.

Dr. Edward A. Cahill, who is connected with the state bureau of animal industry, was seen this morning and said that he had investigated the cattle poisoning in Dracont. "There were 11 cattle pastured on what is known as the 'Austin land,' and six of them were taken sick and died."

Dr. Cahill said that the ground germ eaten by the cattle produced a sort of blood poisoning that proved fatal. "These are the first cases we have had in this section," said Dr. Cahill, "but we have had a number of cases in other parts of the state. The disease is not considered contagious but it is fatal."

We do not know of anything that will kill the germ and it has been more plentiful this year than usual, due, we believe, to the great amount of rain. There is a certain kind of land where the germ seems to prosper, and I presume that the land where Mr. Peabody's cows were pastured is of that kind."

Dr. Cahill stated that the disease is usually caused by cattle feeding around stagnant pools at low water, and the heavy rains this summer have brought about just such a condition in a great many localities as to prosper the germ responsible for the disease. There have been over 150 cases in Massachusetts within the last few months and all of them, it is stated, have proved fatal.

The sixth cow of Mr. Peabody's herd that died did not show symptoms of the disease at the time of Dr. Cahill's examination of the herd, but subsequently developed the disease, and Dr. Cahill said that all of the others are very liable to have it.

JAMES E. O'DONNELL A CANDIDATE

Former Mayor Announces He Will Enter Mayoralty Contest

Contrasts His Administration as Mayor With That of Mayor Murphy

Hon. James E. O'Donnell has today formally announced his candidacy for mayor in the coming municipal primaries, in a statement to the press, which appears below. The former mayor asks the public to compare the administration over which he presided with that at present in office.

The former mayor charges the present administration with having done nothing of a constructive nature, with having increased the current expenses of the city and the water rates, and while ostensibly having reduced the tax rate has done so by a great increase in valuation and in reality has greatly increased the burden of taxes to be borne by the public.

He maintains that conditions relative to morality and law enforcement are the same in Lowell today as when he was in office. In conclusion, he compares the mayor's one-term promise with his own contention, that he has never broken a pledge or promise and has never made a promise that he did not intend to carry out.

ATTACKED AT SEA

British Freighter Reports Being Hit by Eight Projectiles

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 7.—The British freight steamer San Melito arrived today from Tuxpan, Mexico, and reported that she had been attacked sea by an unknown vessel. The captain of the San Melito reported that soon after leaving Tuxpan his vessel was attacked in the night and that eight projectiles exploded against his sides. One sailor was killed and six wounded. The vessel was damaged but managed to escape.

Since the internment of the last two German auxiliary cruisers at Newport News there have been no reports indicating the presence of German war craft in the Atlantic.

CITY HALL NOTES

Business was very quiet at city hall today, none of the commissioners, except Mr. Morse, having shown up during the forenoon. The mayor was also conspicuously by his absence. Commissioner Carmichael has gone to Buffalo, N. Y., to visit the plant of the Holly Pump Co. He is accompanied by Supt. Thomas of the water department and Engineer Barbour, who planned and supervised the filtration plant. The object of the visit to the pump company's plant in Buffalo was not known at city hall.

Albert F. Fales, first assistant tax commissioner, is paying his usual quarterly visit to the board of assessors' office in this city and Mr. Fales never goes away without paying the assessors and their assistants a pretty compliment. He says there isn't any office visited by him where the books are in better order or the work done more systematically than in Lowell.

HARD WORK WHETS THE APPETITE

"The sleep of the laboring man is sweet" because with an honest heart he has done a good day's work.

Some people choose a comfortable corner, idly to sit, and pronounce the shortcomings of every man they know.

They cannot sleep from one end of the year to the other, and they wonder why they have so little appetite for food.

The healthiest and happiest people in the world are those privileged to work a full business day. We have many such people in our business family, whose faces tell their own story of health and happiness and who have no trouble with their appetites or sleep by night.

LONG EXPECTED TEUTONIC DRIVE INTO SERBIA BEGUN

Kaiser Plans to Push on to Constantinople—Allied Troops in Serbia to Resist Attack—French Repulse Fierce Attacks of Germans in Champagne—Zaimis Forms New Greek Cabinet—French Successes in the West

The long expected Teutonic drive into Serbia has begun. Berlin today announced that large forces of German and Austrian troops have crossed the Drina, Save and Danube rivers and have established themselves on the Serbian side of those streams.

The Teutonic purpose is generally conceded to be a push through Serbia, involving the crushing of Serbian military power. This would bring them to Bulgaria, with which country the entente allies have broken and whose assistance, either active or passive, apparently is assured the central powers. Thus the way would be opened to a junction with the Turkish forces and to Constantinople.

Allied Forces in Serbia

Serbia is to be assisted in resisting the Teutonic effort by French and British troops some of whom already are on Serbian soil.

French Check Germans

Violent assaults last night by the Germans in efforts to retake the positions the French captured from them north of Ture in the Champagne district, were repulsed with heavy losses to the Teutonic forces. It is announced in today's official statement from Paris. The most important of these positions is hill No. 157, declared to be a key point in the German second line of defense in this region.

German Counter Attacks Beaten Off

Four counter-attacks by German troops upon positions which they had lost near Souchez, south of Lens, in northern France, also were beaten off.

Paris declares, adding that a German reconnoitering advance in Lorraine was checked by the French fire, and two mines were exploded at Eparges, seriously damaging the German works.

Heavy Cannonading

Violent cannonading between the Meuse and the Moselle and along other parts of the front, is reported.

New Greek Cabinet

Alexander Zaimis is forming a new Greek cabinet in which leaders of the opposition will be given representation, according to Athens dispatches. Former Premier Gounaris, Kallis, Dragoulis and Theotokis, will be members of the coalition ministry, it is declared.

London opinion inclines to the belief that Greece, despite the displacement of the Venizelos cabinet, will be found in the end on the side of the entente allies.

Dramatic Action in Balkans

Influential British journals are urging the government to take drastic action in the Balkans. The landing at Saloniki of imposing forces, supported by a powerful fleet, is advocated.

An interview with former Premier Venizelos, given shortly before his death with King Constantine, leaves no doubt that under his premiership Greece would have vigorously supported Serbia in the present crisis.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER MILL KILLS FOUR MEN

Five Others Injured—Smokeless Powder Was to be Shipped to the Allies Today

EMPORIUM, Pa., Oct. 7.—Four men were instantly killed, another was probably fatally hurt and six were seriously injured in an explosion at the plant of the Aetna Explosive Co. here last night. A large quantity of smokeless powder, prepared for shipment today to the allies, exploded from some yet undetermined cause, blew the two-story structure to atoms and shook the surrounding country for miles around.

Officials informally expressed the opinion that the explosion was accidental.

The plant, which was recently erected at a cost of about $5,000,000, consisted of a large number of buildings, of which the wrecked one was one of the largest. Officials today stated that the property loss was $315,000.

FASHION WEEK PRIZES

Awards Made for Best Window Displays in Down Town Stores—Fashion Week a Big Success

"Fashion Week" has proved a great drawing card for Lowell. The local stores and the board of trade are well pleased with the results thus far and two more days are left for the people to avail of the great bargains and become acquainted with our city in a general way. Saturday will afford outsiders an opportunity to see the stores lighted up at night in addition to the white way illumination. It will be well worth a special trip from the suburban towns. The street decorations will remain in place till late Saturday night.

Prizes Awarded

The window trimming contest in connection with "Fashion Week," organized by the Lowell board of trade, was brought to a close this morning, when the judges, who had been selected by Secretary John H. Murphy, made their tour of inspection and later reported their finding at the rooms of the board.

Three prizes had been offered for the best trimmed windows, these prizes to consist of silver cups to be awarded as follows: Best men's window, best women's window and the third for the best miscellaneous, that is among the stores not included in the other classes.

The judges were Miss Carol F. Heath, interior decorator, with an office in the Sun building; John J. Sullivan, Lowell's leading tailor with office and workshop in the Sun building; and Robert Wood of the Marion studio. The three judges met shortly after 9 o'clock this morning and went around, scrutinizing every store window in Merrimack, Central, Prescott, Middlesex and Gorham streets. Shortly before 11 o'clock they reported as follows:

Class A, men's window, Macartney's Apparel shop, first; Putnam & Son, honorable mention.

Class B, women's window, Gibril Co., first; J. L. Chalifoux Co., honorable mention.

Class C, miscellaneous window, Fairburn's market, first; C. Prince & Son, honorable mention.

The silver cups or prizes, which will be properly engraved will be awarded to the winners tomorrow morning. Secretary Murphy to present the prizes to each winner.

CONGRATULATIONS POUR INTO THE WHITE HOUSE

Pres. Wilson Announces His Engagement to Mrs. Galt—Marriage to Take Place in December

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Congratulations came from official diplomats, friends and relatives of President Wilson today following the announcement of his engagement to Mrs. Norman Galt of Washington.

The fact that the president of the United States on whom the eyes of the world have frequently been focussed in the last few months of the European war had decided to marry again, gave the national capital a topic of absorbing interest which, for a moment, overshadowed all questions of international or domestic politics.

The news came as a surprise to all but a few intimate friends who knew that the friendship of the president for Mrs. Galt had developed into an intimacy that presaged marriage. That Mrs. Galt had become a companion of the president was known, however, in official and society circles, because she appeared frequently with him on motor rides and at baseball games. Close friends who watched the friendship develop expressed today their pleasure at its culmination, not only because of the personal happiness of the president but because it meant a change from a life of loneliness and unvaried occupation to an atmosphere of helpful companionship. His incessant labor alone in the White House during the period of mourning had affected his spirits. When he began to take a renewed interest in personal affairs his friends noted immediately a change for the better in his health and the energies with which he attacked tremendous problems before him.

Probably the first public appearance of the president and Mrs. Galt will be at the World's Series baseball game in Philadelphia on Saturday. Mrs. Galt is fond of athletics, rides horseback occasionally and plays golf. She is interested as well in literary and charitable pursuits.

IN POLICE COURT

Abused Wife in Court—Rival Bakers Fought—Other Cases Heard

After beating his wife into unconsciousness with a piece of furniture last Sunday, George Cummings disappeared and left her lying on the kitchen floor where she was found a few minutes later by neighbors who were summoned to the house by children who witnessed the act, according to the testimony, offered before Judge Enright in the local court this forenoon. Cummings was charged with assault and battery on his wife, Carrie G., and pleaded guilty. The fact that his wife needed his help to support their three minor children prevented the man from getting a direct sentence and the case was continued for one month for investigation. The wife on the stand unfolded a pitiful tale of ill-treatment at the hands of her husband.

That he was followed on the street by his wife and called "Dago Frank" and "Gyp the Blood" when he left the house was the story told by the husband. He said he had always supported his children and made a good husband and father. Mrs. Cummings was recalled to the witness stand and said that a few weeks ago her husband took a shot gun in his hands and dared her to enter the room in which he stood. He told the gun she could not be used for evidence, she claimed.

Judge Enright advised a reconciliation and continued the case for one month.

Rival Bakers Quarrel

Keen rivalry between Hassan Mohamed and Krikor Gordodis, both bakers, resulted in the appearance of the former in court today accused of assault and battery on the latter. After a lengthy trial he was found guilty and ordered to pay a fine of $35. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant and Haven G. Hill for the defense.

The assault occurred last Monday evening on Bridge street, near the corner of French street, when the two rivals met. An argument over bread was followed by a fight in which, it is claimed, the defendant used a motorcycle chain and struck Gordodis over the head, inflicting a severe wound which required medical treatment. Patrolman Michael Winn appeared on the scene and arrested Mohamed. He also picked up the motorcycle chain, which was offered today as evidence.

It was brought out by both sides that the competition existing between the two bakers had caused many threats in the past. Both men claimed that the other had said that if the trouble continued, it would end in the same way as an argument over bread ended a few months ago, when one baker was shot through the abdomen.

"If these men who desire to take the law in their own hands, would do so, and only in their hands, it would not be so bad," remarked the court, "but they persist in carrying knives, clubs and, as in this instance, weapons worse than in this instance, use them, too, with only the least provocation."

The defendant appealed from the fine and was held in $300 for the superior court.

Three drunks were present today. One man, who had paid a $5 fine imposed several weeks ago, was given an

SHOTS FIRED AT NASHUA

TWO POLICEMEN KNOCKED DOWN, KICKED AND BEATEN—ONE TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 7.—In a clash between the police and a crowd composed of a number of striking employees of the Nashua Manufacturing company and the Jackson Manufacturing company today, two policemen were injured one of them, J. J. Kenney, being taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition.

The crowd had assembled near the mill and with the first signs of disorder the police were called. Twenty-five officers responded. Several revolver shots were fired and two of the officers who pushed into the crowd were knocked down, kicked and beaten. The entire squad was necessary to rescue them. No arrests were made.

AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE CRASHED

A motorcycle operated by a Springfield man collided with an automobile truck belonging to the Manhattan market at the corner of Gorham and Carter streets about 11 o'clock this forenoon. The cyclist was thrown from his seat to the pavement but fortunately escaped any serious injury. According to witnesses the motorcycle was proceeding along Gorham street towards Davis square when the delivery truck suddenly appeared from Carter street and turned to go down Gorham street. The man on the motorcycle applied the brakes but his machine skidded and he crashed into the rear of the automobile. Neither machine was badly damaged.

SUPERIOR COURT

The case of Jennie Richards vs. Asa-door Ogozian, an action of tort for $5000, alleging assault and battery, was given to the jury in the superior court this afternoon. The plaintiff claims that she was assaulted on three different occasions by the defendant, who was her landlord. He denies that any assault took place.

ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Mr. O'Sullivan Honored
by Friends at Complimentary Banquet

A testimonial by his Lowell friends was tendered Mr. Humphrey O'Sullivan at the Richardson hotel last evening and the occasion was one that will long remain fresh in the memories of those fortunate enough to participate and bear witness to the call of friendship. That the elaborate reception came as an absolute surprise to Mr. O'Sullivan was depicted on his every feature as he entered the banquet hall and scanned the banquet tables and familiar faces.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE

Bad blood is responsible for more ailments than anything else. It causes catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism, weak, tired, languid feelings and worse troubles. Hood's Sarsaparilla has been wonderfully successful in purifying and enriching the blood, removing scrofula and other humors, and building up the whole system. Take it—give it to all the family so as to avoid illness. Get it today.

The reception he received must have warmed the cockles of his heart and it did not take the title of satisfaction long to carry away the look of surprise that enveloped him when he entered. It was a manifestation of love and friendship of which any man might well feel proud and the pleasure in giving the guest of the evening was reflected in his words of gratitude at the close, when, after an eloquent tribute, Daniel J. Donahue, Esq., presented him a beautiful cut glass vase filled with the choicest of flowers. The occasion also marked his birthday anniversary and Mr. O'Sullivan referred to the event as one of the most pleasant of his life.

He said that when he entered the banquet hall to which he was escorted by District Attorney William J. Corcoran, Deputy Assistant District Attorney Robert J. Crowley, Joseph Donahue and others, he felt lost for the moment but that after he had regained his mental equilibrium he was among the happiest men in the world. He had returned from Boston earlier in the evening and was preparing for bed when Major Robert J. Crowley called at his house and told him that a very old and very dear friend of his was at the Richardson house and was very anxious to see him. It was the call of friendship and Mr. O'Sullivan, as usual, responded to it. The rest has already been told. Instead of coming to meet one friend he came to meet seventy-five or more and not for one moment could he doubt the sincerity of their greeting.

The festivities were begun shortly after 8 o'clock and the city bells were tolling the midnight hour when Humphrey and his friends were homeward bound. Representative Murphy was the chairman of the evening and, after calling to order, turned the meeting over to the toastmaster, Mayor Dennis J. Murphy. This was after a most excellent menu had been discussed and speechmaking was in order. The speakers included the mayor, District Attorney William J. Corcoran, former Representative John J. Gilbride, Deputy Assistant District Attorney Robert J. Crowley, James O'Sullivan, Lawrence Cummings, Postmaster John E. Meahan and Daniel J. Donahue, the orator of the evening.

All of the speakers told of the sterling worth of Humphrey O'Sullivan, referring to him as a captain of industry, worthy and distinguished citizen and helpful friend. They said that because of his modesty the scope of his good work would never be known and that both old and young could attest to his generosity and good will. The district attorney extended the best wishes and congratulations of the county and speakers representing the older men and the younger of the city piled tributes at the feet of the honored guest. His brother, James O'Sullivan, said that he was a complete outsider he could not but admire Humphrey O'Sullivan for his business ability and that the best evidence of his faith in him was contained in the fact that they have been in business for 49 years without a separation. No greater tribute was paid Humphrey O'Sullivan last evening than that spoken modestly by his brother.

Previous speakers had twitted Daniel J. Donahue about having his speech prepared, but they were sorry they spoke before Mr. Donahue got through with them and those who felt the heat of the verbal bombs of Daniel included His Honor, the mayor. But Mr. Donahue's eulogy of the guest of the evening was a masterpiece. He said that the friendship and loyalty of Humphrey O'Sullivan were as impregnable as the rock of Gibraltar and that his very name was woven in the golden chain of friendship, every link of which was made brighter and stronger by his many deeds of kindness. He pictured Mr. O'Sullivan as an emigrant boy coming here unassisted except by that which the good God gave him, a good physique, a good name and a good head. He told of his remarkable rise in the world of commerce, of his political activity and of the many things he had done for his city and the country as a whole. Through it all, he said, Mr. O'Sullivan was forever extending the hand of friendship to the stranger, being happiest when assisting a weaker brother. Mr. Donahue said that looking back over the life of Humphrey O'Sullivan he felt almost compelled to believe that the fables must have escorted the emigrant boy over the wide expanse of ocean marking the distance between his native and adopted country, and that after landing him safely here they must have turned him over to other good fairies that have watched over him from that day to this. In speaking of Mr. O'Sullivan's many triumphs, Mr. Donahue said that Humphrey had made the name of O'Sullivan known in every part of the world.

When Mr. Donahue presented Mr. O'Sullivan the beautiful flower laden vase and Mr. O'Sullivan arose to speak it seemed as if the rafters in the banquet hall cracked to the cheering. When quiet had been restored Mr. O'Sullivan began by saying that it was difficult for him to find words to express his gratitude, appreciation and satisfaction, but before he had finished every man in the room knew exactly how Humphrey O'Sullivan felt about it. He related several interesting incidents in his life during the course of his remarks all of which were very opportune. He gave some good advice, too. He told of the great surprise that had been sprung upon him, but he said he wouldn't have missed it for the world. All through his remarks ran the thought for a greater, busier and more progressive Lowell.

"I preach the gospel of unrest and I don't deny it. You can't have advance without unrest. The moment a man becomes satisfied with his business, his amount of business he is doing, just as soon does he become a nonentity. He has lost his usefulness to himself and to the community in which he lives. That is why I preach a gospel of unrest."

Mr. O'Sullivan made light of any political endeavor on his part and so far, he said, as holding out the helping hand was concerned, he thought he had never done more than his share; that it was any man's duty to extend a helpful hand when the opportunity presented itself, and he could not be accused, he added, of ever having boasted of any assistance proffered by him. As to anything he might have done for Lowell in making it bleeter and better the pleasure was all his. "When in another country," he said, "I beam the United States; when in another state I beam Massachusetts; when in another city I beam Lowell and when in Lowell I beam either the Aero or the Flats."

In closing Mr. O'Sullivan said that his friends present had put him under an everlasting obligation to them and that it would take him the balance of his life to get square with them. He was given three hearty cheers and a cheer for the gathering was brought to a close by the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

The speechmaking during the evening was interspersed with vocal selections by James F. Donnelly, Francis Connor, John E. Burke, Jr. and William J. Reedy. Mrs. Anna Sperry sang the instrumental music. Among those present were:

Cornelius Cronin, who had general charge of affairs; E. J. McManey, Representative-elect; John J. O'Connell, Deputy District Attorney; Robert J. Crowley, Daniel J. Donahue, Representative; James J. Donahue, District Attorney; Corcoran, Postmaster John E. Meahan, James E. Donahue, John H. Cull, Chief Edward E. Saunders of the fire department; James J. Gallagher, Francis A. Connor, James J. Delegates at the Boston North Baptist Convention at Watertown Urged to Further the Revival

WATERTOWN, Oct. 7.—The annual meeting of the Boston North Baptist conference was held yesterday at the First Baptist church, with 350 delegates representing churches in 16 cities and towns present. Rev. D. M. Lockrow of Boston opened with prayer. Rev. Woodman Bradbury, Rev. E. A. C. Palmquist, Prof. R. M. Vaughan and Rev. C. H. J. Lerrigo making addresses. Rev. C. H. Day of the local made an address of welcome.

Rev. Jessie Harrell, Rev. A. A. Robinson and Rev. R. B. Pattison, the two latter from Wallham, were speakers in the afternoon. Rev. Dr. Cortland Myers of Boston, spoke vigorously on the invitation to Billy Sunday to come to Boston. He said there was no place on the continent where Billy Sunday is more needed than in Boston and urged his hearers to work and pray for the success of the coming revival under his guidance.

Rev. P. J. Hackett of Arlington, Prof. J. M. English and Mayor E. O. Childs of Newton spoke in the evening. Rev. Arthur K. DeBols presided. These officers were chosen: Rev. A. K. DeBols, moderator; Rev. L. A. Walker, Boston, clerk; G. H. Wiswam, Watertown, treasurer; J. A. Easton, Arlington, auditor.

COMMENTS LIGHTKEEPERS

Secretary Itself Sends Letters to M. N. Huse, E. C. Mott and A. A. Howard for Giving Aid

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Three Massachusetts men attached to the United States lighthouse service have been commended by Secretary of Commerce William C. Redfield for meritorious services performed under conditions of a trying or hazardous nature. He has sent letters of commendation to each of them.

The men and the services which won them the official commendation are: Malcolm N. Huse, keeper of the Narragansett light station, Boston harbor, assistance given by him on Aug. 13 to the launch Nautilus which had grounded on Lovells Island and assistance given by him two days later to a motor boat with three persons on board which was found to be out of gasoline.

Edwin C. Mott, assistant keeper of Deer Island light station, Boston harbor, assistance rendered to the disabled power boat Alice, which was towed to the station, where food and lodging were given to the 11 men on board.

Alfred A. Howard, keeper of the Stages Harbor light station, Chatham, assistance to the catboat Tribby, which, with a party including several women, was discovered to be in distress and was towed by him to safe anchorage.

STRUCK BY ELECTRIC CAR

Mrs. Anna Sperry and Mrs. Crosby of Tewksbury met with a painful accident in Rogers street a few days ago while driving to this city, their buggy being struck by an electric car. The two women were badly bruised and had their clothing torn. The horse was cut in two places, while the buggy is a total wreck.

The women riding side by side in the buggy were crossing the electric car tracks, when the car crashed into the rig. Mrs. Sperry was driving and she clung to the reins and in this manner prevented the horse from running away and probably causing more damage. The two women are now being treated at their respective homes.

RAILROADS MUST PROVIDE STAKES AND WIRE IN LUMBER CARS—FOUNDER LAW INOPERATIVE

CONCORD, N. H., Oct. 7.—The state public service commission has directed that in the case of all interstate shipments of lumber, railroads must provide stakes and wire, the railroads being directed to devise proper equipment, which must be approved by the commission. A law passed by the last legislature requiring the equipment of lumber cars with stakes and wire has been declared inoperative so far as it affects interstate shipments.

LONG DISTANCE BALLOON RACE

WICHITA, Kas., Oct. 7.—A long distance balloon race will start from here today. A. J. Prevailing winds in central Kansas are expected to start the balloons in an easterly direction.

TO FORECLOSE MORTGAGE

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—The supreme court today affirmed a decree of the superior court authorizing the Federal Trust company to foreclose a mortgage given by the Bristol County Street Railway company in 1901, to secure a bond issue of $200,000. In 1901 the company was declared bankrupt, and a receiver was appointed.

The Tannan & Truststreet Street Railway company which subsequently acquired the property, contended that part of it was not covered by the mortgage and bond issue but the supreme court held otherwise.

Valuable Discovery in Complexion Beautifier

Because of its peculiar power of absorption, also because it serves every emollient purpose, ordinary mercerized wax is perhaps the most valuable complexion beautifier discovered within recent years. If one uses this she needs no toilet cream. Using use powder afterward, but this is not necessary. This wax for applying mercerized wax has been found very satisfactory. Wash the face with warm water, drying lightly. Before thoroughly dry, anoint the face with the wax, but don't rub it in. The favorite way is to use before retiring, allowing it to remain on all night and washing it off in the morning with warm water. All druggists have this wax in original one-ounce packages.

For the removal of a wrinkled or baby condition there is no better than to wash the face in a solution made by dissolving 1 ounce powdered salicylic acid in 1/2 pint witch hazel. Beneficial results are quickly noticeable.

TEXTILE SCHOOL EVENT

ANNUAL SMOKE TALK HELD LAST NIGHT—CONGRESSMAN ROGERS A SPEAKER

The annual smoke talk and entertainment of the Lowell Textile school was held in the school hall last night with a large number of the faculty, undergraduates and "freshies" in attendance. There was a large supply of pipes and tobacco and instructors and students mingled in a very friendly and informal manner. The spirit of good fellowship was the prevailing keynote and all had a good time.

Royal P. White, agent of the Stirling mills introduced Congressman John Jacob Rogers as the first speaker. Mr. Rogers impressed upon the students the necessity of good training in commercial law which he said would be a very essential asset in their future endeavors. He also told them that the business men of the day should take more interest in politics than they have in past years.

A. G. Cumcock, president of the institution was the next speaker and he was enthusiastically received. Mr. Cumcock delivered a very instructive address on mill life and what the school is doing to prepare young men to become efficient manufacturers. Principal Eames gave a short talk on the school and athletic events. Refreshments were served and a musical program was carried out by the students with Prof. Edward Porter at the piano.

WARREN CLUB DANCE

"She'll want to go. Ask her!" If you don't, you're taking a big chance of losing her for the dancing party to be conducted by the Warren club at Associate hall tomorrow night is the talk of the town, and nearly all the "five ones" have dated up their young lady friends for the event. Are you going to remain in the funeral procession? If not, make ready and plan to be in attendance at an early hour at Associate hall tomorrow night. The event promises to be of rare excellence and a number of new features have been arranged. The members of this popular organization have long been noted for their ability to "show something the other fellow has never seen" and the event tomorrow night will follow along this established line. Remember "Eight hours and Oct. 8th."

TWO SMALL FIRES

Fire on the roof of a stable belonging to Susan Hennessy and situated in the rear of 185 Salem street caused an alarm from box 123 shortly before noon today. The fire is believed to have started from a spark from the chimney of an adjoining building. Only a few shingles were damaged. The building is used by Pierre Drapeau.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building. Box 118 at 7.55 o'clock this morning was for a fire in a trunk in a house at 8 Joliette avenue. The trunk was filled with clothing and it is believed that a spark from a pipe started the fire. The house is occupied by Mrs. Goodreau.

At a meeting of the members of the British-American club held at Post 129 hall last evening it was voted that each member be a committee of one to collect all the money possible for the Queen Mary hospital relief fund, at the request of the president of the Red Cross work in Lowell. Routine business was also transacted.

Notification has been sent out by Chief Morse of the postoffice inspectors' division of New England that money order forms, numbered from 565 to 600 inclusive, were stolen from the Baton Centre, N. H., postoffice on the night of Oct. 3. Any information relative to the thieves attempting to cash the money orders at stores or hotels will be gladly received by Chief Morse.

RETAIL JEWELERS DINED

TALKED BUSINESS MATTERS AT BANQUET—NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN—CHEAP AUCTIONS OPPOSED

At the annual fall meeting of the Lowell Retail Jewelers association, held in the Harrisonia hotel last evening, resolutions were again being voted on the wearing of wrist watches by both men and women, and other business of considerable importance was transacted. The meeting, which was preceded by a banquet in one of the lower halls, was presided over by President Frank Ricard.

Seventeen prominent jewelers, every one of them members of the association in good standing, assembled at the above named hotel promptly at 7 o'clock, the scheduled time, to take part in the program which was carefully arranged for the occasion.

After a short wait, occasioned by a slight delay in adjusting the dining hall and attending to other important matters, the jewelers formed in line and marched to the banquet hall where a very appetizing menu awaited them. At the conclusion of the repast, informal talks on trade matters were made by J. G. Marshall, Leo Ricard and others.

The business session was called to order at about 8.30 o'clock by President Ricard, and the first move was the election of officers for the ensuing term.

The following were elected: Frank Ricard, president; C. A. Senter, vice president; M. F. Wood, treasurer; J. E. Lyle, secretary; David Harlow, Abraham Gustaf and J. Perreault, board of directors.

Reports were then read from the grievance and committee members and accepted as progressive, and the treasurer's report showed the association to be in excellent financial condition.

A letter was received from Mayor Murphy, expressing regret at inability to attend.

A committee of three was appointed to draw up an ordinance to be presented to the city solicitor for the purpose of restraining cheap auction sales after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The jewelers feel that by taking this move they are protecting not only themselves but the jewelry buying people who are easily lured into purchasing the worthless articles usually offered at these sales. A state law is now in effect which makes cheap auction sales almost prohibitive on account of the large fee charged to conduct such a business in any city or town in the state, but the jewelers are going to make an effort to stop the practice altogether in this city.

Henry Levalle spoke on the matter.

STOLEN AUTO RECOVERED

TWO BOYS ARRESTED HERE EARLY THIS MORNING WHILE DRIVING STOLEN AUTO

Randal F. Elder and Austin P. Graham, 18-year-old students who reside in Everett, were taken to Boston today by FBI inspectors charged with stealing a Ford automobile from Charles street, that city. The boys were arrested on Appleton street at 1.30 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Frank Carey and Daniel Lynch. While Patrolman Carey was walking up Appleton street, near South, the machine stopped near him and one of the occupants inquired the way to East Chelmsford. They acted suspiciously and said that they lived in Everett, while the machine bore a New Hampshire registration number. When confronted with this fact they were unable to explain the reason for a Boston machine having a New Hampshire number and they were taken to the police station, where they admitted stealing the automobile when questioned by Capt. Atkinson.

MRS. BARNES RECOVERING

NEW BEDFORD "BEARCAT" IS A MUCH SOUGHT FOR BOXER AT NEW ENGLAND FIGHT CLUBS

Al Shubert of New Bedford is one boxer around these parts that does not have to worry over the high cost of living, for he is in great demand at the boxing clubs throughout New England and when it is announced that he will fight, you can rest assured that he will be there to do his share and that is the reason the promoters like to use Shubert, besides he draws well at all times, packing the house practically every time he fights.

The New Bedford Political and Social club has Al looked for Columbus day. Shubert's opponent will be Mickey Brown of Malden, with whom he fought a ten round draw a few years ago at Boston. Shubert and Brown will travel over 15 rounds next Tuesday if the bout does not terminate before that time.

On Oct. 15, Shubert will oppose a boxer hailing from New York under the name of Willie Brown, who is looked upon to cause the rugged Whaling City boy considerable trouble. The Twentieth Century club of Pittsfield has secured the match and the fans from the heart of the Berkshires will want to view this little fighter from New Bedford again after they have seen him perform once.

Jim Crilly, the Lawrence promoter, wants to use Shubert as soon as possible at his Unity club. Al is a great favorite at the down-river club and it does not make any difference who he fights, he makes the fight and the fear-fight of Shubert's next opponent at Lawrence, "Kid" Wolfe, with whom he fought three times will probably be the first one to oppose him at Lawrence. Wolfe lost to the New Bedford boy on all three occasions, twice in Lawrence and the other time in Thornton, R. I.

Joe Chick and Wild Bill Flemming will fight at Lawrence Columbus day. Quite a delegation from Lowell intends to take in this star attraction on the holiday. Chick has shown in Lowell twice and each time he showed good fighting ability. While Flemming has not appeared in Lowell, his prowess has been followed by the local fans and they know he is one great man at 145 pounds.

Gilbert "Lucky" Gallant will oppose Frankie Callahan again in a Boston ring. The boys will clash on next Tuesday evening and a large crowd of world's series rooters will attend. Callahan defeated Gallant the last time they met, knocking the Chelsea boy down in the first minute of fighting. A good preliminary show will appear before the feature event.

Babe Christo will get a chance to fight in Lawrence at one of the first shows staged there. Manager Crilly has promised him several bouts if he makes a good initial bow, which Christo will, we think.

WILFRED SOX, CUBS 5

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The American league club drew first blood over their National league rivals for the championship of Chicago yesterday, by winning the first game of the series, 5 to 3. Vaughn pitched a great game for six innings, striking out eight of his opponents, but he weakened in the seventh. In that inning he was touched for four hits, one of which was a triple by Eddie Collins and netted the Cardinals four runs and the game.

ST. LOUIS GAME A DRAW
ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—The second game of the city series, a see-saw affair, was called a draw after the 12th inning just after the Americans had tied the score for the third time yesterday. The score was 3 to 3.

THE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES
Each Game of the Yearly Baseball Classic To Be Electrically Reproduced in This City

Lowell in the past three years has enjoyed during the world's championship baseball games a reproduction on an automatic score board of each of the games as they were played. This year, encouraged by the increased patronage of the baseball fans during the last series, the management of this popular sporting event decided to give to the baseball loving public a big improvement in the score board. During the summer season they engaged the services of the U. W. Conant & Co. and C. H. May company to construct for use during the coming series an automatic electrical baseball score board after plans which were carefully prepared to embrace the good points of the boards used throughout the country and to eliminate any confusing details which might mar the enjoyment of the audience in following the progress of the game.

This board has been completed during the past week and several tryouts have proven it even better than the expectations of the builders. It stands 12 feet high and 11 feet across and has on each side an additional board giving a complete lineup and box scores of the game as it progresses. It will show in detail every movement of the ball and the base runner. For instance, if a Red Sox runner is on third base with Ted Spenser at the bat and the Sox need one run to tie the score it will show the progress of the ball from the pitcher to the plate and when Speaker hits it you will see the movement of the ball to a point far in the outfield, the man on third on the same time moving towards home. Then some one next to you will shout: "Watch that throw home" and you will see the ball moving swiftly from the field back towards home plate all the time backing on the runner.

By that time you will be on your feet yelling, "Hit the slide" and when the Red Sox runner makes the bag before the ball, your imagination, coupled with the vivid reproduction of the movements of the ball and the players before you, will make you forget entirely that you are not actually in the grandstand yourself.

The board will be shown this year at the Crescent skating rink on Hurd street, and when you think of the cold October winds that are apt to be blowing through the grandstand at the grounds you may well be thankful that you have the opportunity to witness the game right in Lowell, inside where it is warm, and where the afore-said wind will not blow out your matches when you hit up the pipe or light your cigar.

To give the fans this excellent and prompt service during the World's Series, the American League and National League will install a great many telegraphic instruments at the grounds and one of the instruments is wired directly into each hall where a score board is operated. When Ernie Shore or some other Red Sox twirler winds up and pitches the first ball of the game that ball is shown on the score board before the catcher at the grounds returns it to the pitcher's box.

As before mentioned the "Acme" electrical score board will be seen at the Crescent Garden rink, Hurd street, daily. Reserved seats are on sale at special arrangements have been made to accommodate the many fans and a section of reserved seats has been set aside for the exclusive disposal. The admission is within reach of all, 25c, with a few good reserved seats at 10c, extra. Reserved seats are on sale at the Bowdoin, Hurd street, Telephone 815, and at the Arlington Hotel, Tel. 1870. Come and root for the Red Sox.

CATCHING DEPARTMENT

COMPARISON OF CATCHERS WHO WILL APPEAR IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Offensively and defensively there appears to be little advantage for either Boston Americans or the Philadelphia Nationals in the catching departments, in the coming world's series. Both the Red Sox and the Phillies have a trio of backstops who are far above the ordinary in ability in this particular feature of the game. The American league champions in Manager Carrigan, Cady and Thomas have three experienced catchers who are thoroughly at home behind the plate and familiar with every detail of the position. Kilfliter is the veteran of the Phillies' catching force, but Burns has shown during 1914 season that he is not far behind his chief in all-round ability, while Adams, the third string catcher, is a youngster who, in his few try-outs, has given promise of measuring up to the standards set by his two superiors in the near future.

While experience counts for much in the work behind the plate, it is not always the veterans who shine in the big baseball series. If this were the case, the Americans would have a wide margin of reserve strength since Carrigan and Cady both figured prominently in the famous eight games of the 1903 series in the Giants and the Red Sox in 1912, whereas none of the Phillies' catchers has figured in the fight for the premier pennant of the diamond game. Thus it can be seen that so far as experience is concerned the Red Sox have the advantage.

So far as the figures for the season's work can be used for a basis of comparison, however, there is nothing to indicate that much difference exists in the actual work of the players under consideration. Kilfliter has caught a majority of the games played by the Phillies this year, with Burns filling in as emergency and relief catcher. The former has a fielding average of .973 and fielded .976, while Burns has fielded .971 and batted .253. Carrigan has received credit for playing in a little more than half the number of games that Cady and Thomas have officiated in and his averages are: Fielding, .976; batting, .207.

The infielders and the averages of the rival catching departments, considered as units, are as follows:

BOSTON
Player	ba.	fa.	Fielding	P.C.
Carrigan	.207	.976	.976	.976
Cady	.239	.971	.971	.971
Thomas	.241	.974	.974	.974
Averages	.229	.973	.973	.973

PHILADELPHIA
Player	ba.	fa.	Fielding	P.C.
Kilfliter	.247	.973	.973	.973
Burns	.243	.969	.969	.969
Adams	.000	.000	.000	.000
Averages	.230	.971	.971	.971

WORLD'S SERIES TICKETS

DISTRIBUTION BEGINS AT RED SOX OFFICE—ROYAL ROOTERS OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Thousands of persons learned today that they had been successful in their applications for grandstand or pavilion reservations for the world's series baseball games which played at the Braves' field beginning yesterday. After several days and nights of work with only snatches of sleep President Joseph J. Lannin of the Boston Americans and an augmented office staff put the last of the notices of reservations in the postoffice today. There were about 10,000 notices of reservations for each of three games. Under the system which has been in effect at world's series games here in recent years, applicants will present their notifications and money at the box offices and receive the tickets. All in the interest of the covering 25-cent reservations not of the day preceding the first game in this city will be disposed of at public sale, to start at 9 o'clock on the morning of the game.

BOSTON ROOTERS OFF

Left for New York with Band This Noon—All Confident of Winning the Pennant

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Tessie, Johnnie Keenan and the rest of the Boston Royal Rooters left for New York on the first leg of their journey to Philadelphia in quest of the world's championship gonfalon. Somewhat less than six hours later Broadway will hear the old song, for at 6:45 the rooters will have arrived in the Grand Central depot and immediately thereafter will be on their way to the Elks club in 34th street.

The big march will be on. The intrepid band of shouters and singers, who may well believe that they have brought victory to Boston on every occasion in which a big pennant has been at stake, will cheer the hostess City of Shmober. No more hopeful band has ever left Boston. Not one in the big "Boston 1915" can see anything like defeat for the Red Sox. Some there are who think possibly Alexander may cop the opener, but in the long run, they look for a Boston win.

"Our crowd," says Chief Keenan, "will be right on hand, shouting for the Red Sox from the drop of the hat. You can take it from me, every one of the crowd feels sure the Red Sox will win, and thus keep Boston's reputation as securing one, provided, however, that the other side can't get a better pitcher, but remember that Carrigan has a wonderful pitching staff in Shore, Foster, Leonard, Ruth, Collins and the others. Any one of these men is lots better than the last Moran can offer, aside from Alexander."

Keenan's secretary, who is one of the majority of the party, is not one who thinks that the Red Sox will lose in the end. All series that it will be a tough series and one in which the breaks of the game will figure in a great extent. Nevertheless, however, he rests assured that the Royal Rooters will be at Philadelphia, regardless of all opposition, prepared to do their utmost to bring the big dog home.

The Royal Rooters, with their own band under Jimmy Connelley's able direction, gathered at the South station soon after noon and for perhaps an hour or more the band entertained the big gathering which was there to see them off with "Tessie" and the other Boston war songs. The train was boarded at 12:25.

On Friday morning the party will re-assemble at the Elks club at 8 o'clock and march to the Pennsylvania station, where the train will be boarded for Philadelphia. They will arrive at the Broad street station before 11 o'clock and march to headquarters, after which they will go to the National League park for the game. Following the game they will parade back to town.

Ernie Shore of the Red Sox pitching the first inning of the first game of the double-header against New York yesterday, struck out High, Peckinpaugh and Boone on 14 pitched balls. He pitched only that inning.

SIGN NEW STAR PLAYER

BUNTING SOCCER TEAM SIGNS WALLACE, FORMERLY OF THE SCOTLAND TEAM

The Scots of Clan MacPherson will come to town on Saturday to play the strong Bunting team and will bring along their new star center half whom they signed last week. This new man should strengthen the defence of the Scottish boys. But will he be able to hold up the Bunting forwards, who are a fast lot, and who know how to get rid of the ball to the best advantage? Greenhalge played a star game at centre forward against Lawrence, and the chances are that he will be able to outwit the Clan's defence and look after his wing men. If, on the other hand, the Clan's star puts Greenhalge off his game, this might disorganize the Buntings, for the management has great faith in its team and hopes to capture both points from the Scots.

The Buntings hope to have the assistance of J. Wallace at outside right. This player earned his right in the Scottish team of 1913-14 and was a star player for the Manchester team last season. The Buntings have secured the services of a star player in Wallace. The committee is now after another player and hope to have him in the lineup when Bunting meets Andover in the first round of the state cup at Buntingford. The Buntings have a record crowd to see this game. Andover won the league championship last year and is going strong this season, having played and won four games.

The Bunting management is doing its best to give the fans the best soccer football to be seen on this side of the water and in return they ask the support of all members of the Bunting club and the soccer fans who are not members, for all may see the games.

The Buntings have the best clubhouse in the grounds in New England, with seating capacity for 800, with clear view of the game from any point, them.

CLOSING GAMES TODAY

BOTH LEAGUES FINISH SEASON—RED SOX WILL GO TO PHILADELPHIA AFTER NEW-YORK GAME

The season of both big leagues closes today with each of the Boston teams playing, the Red Sox in New York and the Braves at home.

Tonight the Red Sox will go over to Philadelphia and get a good night's rest preparatory to their opening game in Philadelphia tomorrow.

Crowds left Boston today for New York, intending to remain overnight in the Metropolis and leave for Philadelphia in the morning.

A number of well known Lowell men will attend the first two games, making their abiding place at Atlantic City. Judging from the number of reservations, the game will be well represented at the series. Many Lowell men have applied for more tickets than they personally need, feeling confident that they can dispose of them, and hence everybody in Lowell who wants a ticket should have no great difficulty in securing one, provided, however, that those who have applied get all the tickets they have applied for.

FOOTBALL

The Athletics have organized for the purpose of playing Glavin's Pets. We have been after Manager Glavin for a week. The Athletics have D. O'Connor, J. J. O'Brien, C. Riley, G. Rogers and others to back their manager. Come along and give us a game for October 12th on the South common. Answer through The Sun.

The Tiger football team would like to arrange games with any strong teams in Lowell. They have a few open dates. Address, Arthur Nicholson, 43 Kirk street, Methuen, Mass.

PICKING THE WINNER

STALLINGS AND HUGGINS FAVOR RED SOX—WHAT OTHER MANAGERS SAY

Managers in the American and National leagues in their opinions of the world's series favor the club in their organization. There are a few exceptions. George Stallings and Charley Herzog are credited with the statement that the Red Sox will win, while John McGraw believes that if Alexander can't turn the trick the Phillies haven't a chance. The other leaders pick the Moran men to win.

In the American league the pilots are almost unanimous in their opinions. They pick the Red Sox, of course. Clarke Grimh of Washington is in doubt and contends that if Alexander can hold up the Phillies will win. Bill Donovan of the Yankees refuses to commit himself, but thinks the series will be mighty interesting. Here are the opinions:

ROGER BRESNAHAN, Chicago Cubs: "Philadelphia will take the series. I look for Alexander to do what Matthewson did in 1905—win three games. Rixey, Demaree or Chalmers will take the fourth."

JOHN MCGRAW, New York Giants: "The Phillies have only one chance, and that is for Alexander to beat the Red Sox in three games. If he fails the Boston club will win."

MILLER HUGGINS, St. Louis Cardinals: "On form the Red Sox should win, but you can never tell about the Phillies. They have a tendency to break up games when least expected. If Alexander and Mayer are right I look for Philadelphia to put up a stiff fight."

GEORGE STALLINGS, Boston Braves: "Boston will beat the Phillies. I do not think Alexander can shoulder the burden and win three games in so short a time. Besides, the Phillies do not hit consistently enough to beat Carrigan's twirlers."

WILBERT ROBINSON, Brooklyn Dodgers: "It will be a tough series. The Phillies are gamier than they appear to be. They gained the lead in the National league race and held it by their aggressiveness. Moran has some sluggers along with several good pitchers. Alexander, of course, being the star."

CHARLES HERZOG, Cincinnati Reds: "I have not seen the Red Sox this season, but if they are anything like they were in 1912 they should win. I do not think the Phillies the best club in our league. Alexander won the deg for Moran and he will have to win the world's series for him."

FRID CLARKE, Pittsburgh Pirates: "I have seen one pitcher win a world's series and do not think this year will be an exception. Alexander is the greatest twirler of the day and I believe he will win the dag for the Phillies."

AMERICAN LEAGUE
CONNIE MACK, Philadelphia Athletics: "Boston is a great club and should win on paper, but one cannot always figure a short series that way. Pitching is a great factor in a world's series."

CLARENCE ROWLAND, White Sox: "The Boston club should win the series decisively. I want to see Shore pitch against Alexander in the first game. I predict he will defeat the great pitcher of the Phillies. Defensively and offensively the Red Sox is the better club. It has the pitching, fielding and batting to win."

HUGH JENNINGS, Detroit Tigers: "Boston defeated us in one of the hottest battles ever waged in the American League. The schedule favored the Red Sox, but there is no denying they are a great ball club. Great pitchers often win post-season series and there is no denying Alexander is one of the best the game has produced. He will stack up against a stronger club than he has won this year and will have his troubles. Boston has the shade."

CLARKE GRIFFITH, Washington: "It ought to be a tough series. If Alexander could stand the gaff, as he says he can, and pitch all the games, the Phillies might breeze through. There is no denying Boston has a great club, but it has been lucky against us this season. It beat us out of several close games by getting the breaks."

BRANCH RICKNEY, St. Louis Browns: "I figure Boston will win the series in six games. Alexander should win two contests. Boston has the greatest outfield in the world and a star at every position."

BILL DONOVAN, New York Yankees: "Pitching is a great factor in a big series, and a club like the Philadelphia Athletics, with a pitcher like Alexander, must be conceded a good chance. Boston has a great club in the Red Sox. It should be an interesting series."

LEE FOHL, Cleveland: "I expect to see Boston win, as the Red Sox hurlers will be backed by great fielding. Boston has had experience in a world's series. The Phillies have had none."

LINE UP FOR TICKETS

CROWDS AT PHILADELPHIA BALL PARK LAST NIGHT—CARRIGAN INVITED TO USE GROUNDS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—Thousands of baseball fans in this city rushed eagerly for their early morning mail today to learn whether they had been fortunate enough to secure reservations for the world's championship games between the Philadelphia National league champions and the Boston American title holders. Those who had taken the precaution to write the management last week and were moderate in their requests were, in most instances, rewarded with a notice to report either at the grounds or at the downtown office of the Philadelphia Athletics. The lineup at these places took the place of the long line which in previous years stormed the local department store where some of the reserved seats were offered to the public.

Although the first game will not be played until tomorrow afternoon and the entrance to the bleachers will not be opened until 10 o'clock on the morning of the game, the lineup for the 7000 seats in that section which was begun yesterday by several men and boys, was augmented during the night and early today was composed of several score eager fans and numerous small boys who hope to sell their places in line to an advantage.

Despite unfavorable weather and the soggy ground from recent rains, Manager Moran planned morning and afternoon practice for all the players. Part of the time was spent in practicing defensive plays with men on the bases. In addition there was the usual school hour in the clubhouse which Moran conducted during the season.

The question whether Bill Kilfliter will get into the series was still in doubt today, that is, as far as the general public was concerned. The same arm was again examined by New York expert yesterday. If Killifer cannot go behind the bat tomorrow, Moran will be compelled to send in Burns. What difference this will make in the pitching of Alexander is hard to tell.

The Boston Red Sox, who end the American league season in New York today, will arrive here late tonight and will, in consequence have little time for signal practice.

Manager Moran has invited Manager Carrigan to use the Phillies' playing field whenever he wants to.

AS COACH FOR YALE

BIG TEN-MILE EVENT

ANOTHER TRACK EVENT OF NATIONAL IMPORTANCE AT BUNTING CLUB

The athletic meeting to be held at the Bunting club grounds, on Columbus day, promises to be the biggest event of the season and the committee in charge assures the public that there will be no disappointments this time as every precaution has been taken and nothing but death can interfere with the appearance of Villar Kyronen and Hannes Kolehmainen, America's two greatest ten-milers of the present day. Cliff Horne, the New England champion at 10 miles will also be in the race and as he has a good hand on the scorching men he may upset some of the advance dope on the race. Kyronen's mark made at the Bunting club on Labor day is 36 m. 25 2-5 sec. On the other hand Kolehmainen, according to the World Almanac, has a mark of 51 m. 2 3-5 sec. for 10 miles, made November 1, 1913, which is going some.

There will be a long program of interesting track events in addition to the big event.

LITTLE BETTING ON SERIES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—With the first game of the world's series only 24 hours off betting was not brisk. At one headquarters where many substantial wagers are made on the world's series every year, Boston money was lying idle waiting for takers at events on the result of the series. Philadelphia supporters were holding out for 6 to 5 or better. Some bets were made at 3 to 2 that the Phillies would win the first game if Alexander pitched.

DRAFT FOR THE MILITIA

CAPT. HARRY G. CHASE, M. V. M.
SUBMITS PLAN TO THE SPECIAL
MILITARY COMMISSION

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Conscription of recruits for military training by a system similar to the present jury system was advocated by Capt. Harry G. Chase, M. V. M., at the hearing before the special military commission at the state house yesterday. Capt. Chase urged the federation of the militia and declared that the prevailing military training in the public schools is worse than useless because it brings the militia no enlistments. He scored the elective system for officers at present in force in the militia.

He pleaded for a uniform system of instruction for the militia throughout the country, a uniform system of establating the ratings of officers, closer contact between the regular army and the militia and the extending of the period of field training from eight to at least 14 days. He expressed the opinion that militia should be maintained at full war strength and pointed out that a full division of 21,000 troops had never been seen on parade in Massachusetts.

Dr. Hugh Cabot declared that a military training constituted equipment in the business of living. He said that men should be taught to take care of themselves in the open under all sorts of conditions as it not only trained them to be soldiers but also to be men.

Maj. Henry L. Higginson, Samuel J. Elder and J. W. Farley also spoke before the commission. Maj. Higginson supported the suggestion of putting the militia under federal control. He said particular stress upon the need of teaching the men obedience and of undivided authority. He recited several instances of insubordination by members of the militia during the Civil war and stated that housekeeping in camp should be one of the principal features of the education of the recruit.

Mr. Elder, who appeared before the commission as a trustee of the world peace foundation, outlined the stand of the peace advocates in relation to the work of the commission. He said he believed in preparedness and that the nation at all times should be ready to control peace.

Mr. Farley, who was one of the men who helped raise the first Massachusetts contingent which went to Plattsburg, N. Y., said that Massachusetts needs four or five times the number of troops now organized and that a military training was desirable. He said that military service should be placed on the same plane as taxation. He also advocated a chain of summer camps similar to the one at Plattsburg.

IN THE CHURCHES

The monthly supper and entertainment at the Pawtucket Congregational church last evening was well attended. Supper was served in the vestry at 7:15 o'clock by the supper committee. Mrs. Mary E. Ryan, chairman. A sparkling comedy sketch, "The Wrong Miss Mather," was presented with the following young women taking part: Misses Gladys Curran, Mildred Fay, Cora Garnet, Anna Hall, Esther Douglas and Edith Cameron. The entertainment was under the supervision of Mrs. Jessie A. Howe.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The famous championship diamond belt presented to John L. Sullivan by admiring friends in 1887, and later left by him in Chicago as security for a $1000 loan, is again in the possession of the veteran heavyweight pugilist, it became known today.

Sullivan redeemed it from a jewelry firm yesterday, paying $5300. The celebrated trophy is made up of 350 diamonds and fourteen pounds of gold.

WANT PAWTUCKETVILLE CHURCH

A meeting of the French-American residents of Pawtucketville will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the rooms of the Pawtucketville Social club in Moody street with a view of renewing activities on the project undertaken some two years ago for the establishment of a French Catholic church in the district. The matter was brought to the attention of the diocesan authorities some two years ago, a committee having been appointed to wait upon Cardinal O'Connell and at that time the cardinal took the matter under advisement.

just past 40. She was born in Wytheville, Va., where she lived with her father, W. H. Bolling, a prominent lawyer, until she married Norman Galt in 1896. Mr. Galt died in 1907 and Mrs. Galt has lived in Washington with her mother since that time. She has no children.

Last autumn Miss Margaret Wilson and her cousin, Miss Bones, met Mrs. Galt in Washington. She charmed them so that she was invited to the White House. She soon became one of the small circle of persons who have been received informally by the members of the president's household.

At Baseball Games

Miss Wilson and Mrs. Galt were together a great deal during the fall. She lunched and dined frequently at the White House. During the late autumn she motored occasionally with the president and Miss Wilson.

When winter turned to spring, Mrs. Galt became an almost daily visitor at the White House. Frequently she went with the president's party to the golf course and when the ball season opened she sat beside the president in the box.

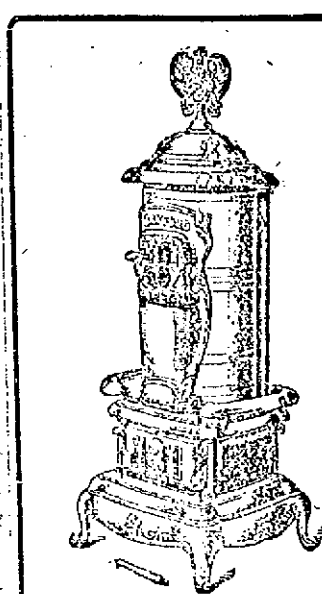

When the president went to Cornish last summer, Miss Wilson invited Mrs. Galt to visit the summer White House and she spent a month there.

Rumors Two Months Ago

Rumors were about more than two months ago that a White House engagement might be expected within the near future, but it was impossible to induce any White House official to verify the report. Little by little stories began to creep out of the attentions which Mrs. Galt received from the president. Little stories were whispered about in the inner circles that the president was the most gallant of lovers.

About this time an attempt was made to get a photograph of Mrs. Galt, but she had issued strict orders to every photographer that her picture must not be allowed to leave their studios until they had her personal instructions.

Not since the Sayre baby—the president's first grandchild—was born at the White House last year has the great white structure been the scene of so much joy. Everyone connected with the house and the offices beamed with smiles last night when Secretary

ARE AS DISTINCT AND SUPERIOR AS CRAWFORD RANGES

IN ECONOMY, DURABILITY AND BEAUTY

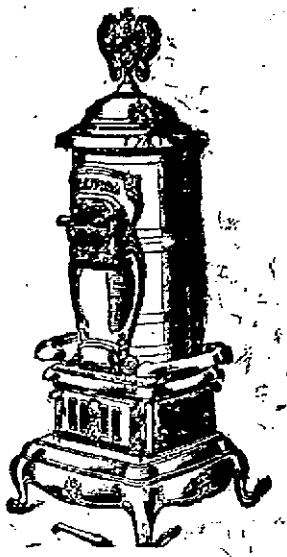

A genuine indirect full return flue stove. The smoke and heat pass downward through the body and the ashpit sides to a flue beneath the ashpan. Then it passes to the rear of the ashpit and through the sheet-iron backpipe to the chimney. Before buying any parlor stove take out the ashpan and see if there is a smokedue beneath it. If not, it isn't a full indirect draft stove, and it must and it will cost more coal to run it and it won't keep fire over night as well. You can keep a fire going night and day in a CRAWFORD from now till next spring without trouble and at half the expense in coal as some stoves. The CRAWFORD has plain surface, little ornament and removable nickel.

50 Parlor Stoves from the Royal Bankrupt Stock Sale go on Sale this Week at 1/3 Discount.

Tumulty at 8 o'clock made the formal announcement.

White House Pleased

Since her advent at the White House Mrs. Galt has been the most popular visitor for whom the tall black porters at the portico have been accustomed to open the doors without demanding a card. In the offices, in police headquarters, in the pantry and in the kitchen every man and woman sang her praises.

The announcement that she would soon become the first lady of the land was received by all of them with great joy.

It was just 14 months yesterday, Aug. 6, at 5 p. m., that Mrs. Wilson died. Before her untimely death the White House was pointed out as one of the happiest homes in the country. The president, his daughters and Mrs. Wilson appeared to be supremely happy.

When Mrs. Wilson's death all this happiness was wiped out. Already Miss Jessie Wilson had married Francis Bowers Sayre and moved away to Williamstown, Mass. Then came the wedding of Miss Eleanor to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Death and marriage reduced the president's family to two—Miss Margaret and himself.

Trying Period For President

Since that time the White House has been lonesome. The president has been in mourning until two months ago. While his domestic sorrows pressed heavily upon him the greatest cares that have befallen a chief executive since Abraham Lincoln lived in the White House crowded around him. From time to time persons in close touch with the president feared that the combination of affairs would bear too heavily upon him and that he would become a nervous wreck.

While he was surrounded by the troubles of the nation and his own personal sorrows, Mrs. Galt appeared as a member of the White House circle. It is an open secret that Miss Wilson and Miss Bones soon became convinced that the president was fascinated by Mrs. Galt and they encouraged the association. From the beginning of the acquaintance the president and Mrs. Galt seemed to be perfectly congenial.

When she appeared at the White House to take the afternoon motor ride the heavy responsibilities of the European situation appeared to fall from the president's shoulders. He showed his inner characteristics and exhibited the rare sense of humor that the public has not had an opportunity of seeing. Gradually the heavy sorrow that had oppressed him for a year faded and Mrs. Galt and they enjoyed a happy time with Mrs. Galt.

Last night many little instances were told of how the president would allow no one to wait upon Mrs. Galt while he was present. If she desired a coat the president brought it, and so with all the little attentions that are illustrative of the lover.

Inherited Jewelry Store

During the years since she became a widow Mrs. Galt has lived in an attractive home on 20th street, just around the corner from Dupont Circle, Washington's social hub. She was not known much in Washington's "smart set," which is composed principally of millionaires and their families who have moved here within the generation.

She associated principally with the circle known as the "Cave Dwellers." These are the oldest families of Washington, who move pretty much in their own circle and of whom little is seen in the headlines.

Mrs. Galt inherited from her husband one of the oldest jewelry stores in America. It is to Washington what Tiffany's is to New York. The store was founded more than 150 years ago by one of her former husband's forefathers.

Thomas Jefferson "dealt with Galt's" when he was president and he stocked the White House silver closets from the Galt shelves.

Expected to Be Social Center

Last night's announcement was the most welcome piece of news that Washington society has had in many months. It was interpreted to mean that the White House again would become a social center. During the last year the White House has been in deep mourning and there have been no social functions.

The advent of Mrs. Galt as the first lady of the land is expected to change all of this. It is thought that she will take up the social duties which were laid down more than a year ago and that there will be a general round of gaiety.

Mrs. Galt was considered beautiful when a young girl. She was of an Irish type of brunette with dark hair, rosy cheeks and light eyes. Today she is tall, vigorous and exceedingly good looking.

The vigorous health that she inherited from her father and mother and imbibed in the mountains of Virginia has remained with her through life. Her face is fair, her hair black, her eyebrows heavy and dark, and her figure erect and striking for a woman of 44 years of age.

Mrs. Galt's Family

Judge Bolling, father of Mrs. Galt, was a leading attorney of Virginia. He had a large and remunerative practice. Mrs. Bolling, mother of Mrs. Galt, is of an old southern family. She is now a resident of Washington. After Judge Bolling died she came to this city to be with her children.

Mrs. Norman Galt has two sisters, Mrs. Hunter Galt, who married a county of Norman Galt, and Miss Bertha Bolling, and three brothers. Two of the brothers are in a jewelry store on Pennsylvania avenue.

Mrs. Galt had one child, a boy, but he died young.

It frequently was remarked last night that after all, Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the Wilson family physician, must have full credit for having been the matchmaker in this case. It was he who introduced Mrs. Galt to Miss Margaret Wilson and Miss Bones. They, in turn, later presented her to the president.

Widowed Presidents

Thomas Jefferson's wife died 19 years before he became president. He never remarried.

Andrew Jackson's wife died in 1825, the year he was elected. He never remarried.

Martin Van Buren's wife died 18 years before he became president. He never remarried.

John Tyler's wife died in 1842, after he had been president one year. While still in office he married Miss Julia A. Gardner of New York.

Chester A. Arthur's wife died just a year before he became president. He never remarried.

Benjamin Harrison's wife died while he was still president, a few weeks before the election of 1892. Four years later, when out of office, he married her niece, Mrs. Mary Scott (Lord), Dimmick.

The Analogous Instance

The only instance of a president, widowed while in the White House, who remarried during his term of office is that of John Tyler. His first wife, Letitia Christian, died in 1842. Two years later, on June 26, 1844, he married Miss Julia A. Gardner of New York, who was at the time but 24 years old, or 30 years his junior.

THE MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN

The municipal campaign promises to be pretty lively should Mayor Murphy be renominated with Rodrigue Mignault or somebody else as his opponent.

There is much dissatisfaction in reference to the trick tax rate by which the actual rate was reduced by $1.10 from $21.90, the highest in the history of the city, although the tax bills this year are higher than last year. The small taxpayers especially resent this deceptive method of juggling the tax rate. Property that was previously taxed at what seemed to be a fair rate is valued higher this year. One woman from the Highlands who painted her house during the past year called at city hall to inquire why the assessed value of her property should be increased $200 just because she had given her domicile a coat of paint at an expense of about $100.

Others whose property is depreciating with the passing years inquire why the assessors placed a higher value upon it than during the previous year. They say they do not understand it and many feel that the assessors made a mistake in raising the valuation of property that was not even painted during the past year. There will undoubtedly be petitions for abatements as a result; but the taxpayers may as well realize now as later on that the political exigencies of the administration demanded a lower tax rate without reducing the revenue. Hence the valuation of property was pushed up so that the tax rate might be pushed down. That is a political trick that has been resorted to by some discredited administrations in the past but never quite so barefacedly as in the present instance.

The taxpayers ask what are we getting for the high taxes of these two years; and the only answer that can be given is—an "economic administration" whose principal achievement is to increase the taxes.

Last year we expected that an isolation hospital would have been started but all the administration did was to undo what its predecessor had done, and now that the Pillsbury site has been thrown overboard a new site has been selected in Pawtucketville. Thus the matter is where it was two years ago.

On the high school matter the municipal council went to the legislature early in the year and secured permission to borrow $100,000 outside the debt limit for a high school but the first step toward securing a site has not yet been completed. The property owners on Kirk street are being held in suspense while their property is understood to be seized for high school purposes. That, in addition to some talk about a supervising architect, indicates the extent of the work done upon the high school.

Of the Pawtucket bridge muddle it is needless to say anything. The public are fully conversant with the unbusiness-like bungling on that proposition and its final abandonment so that a new administration taking charge will have to begin all over again; but we may have a long reckoning to settle up with Mr. Denman, who was engaged as supervising architect for the new bridge that the city finally decided not to build.

Similarly a number of street extensions are brought forward and held in the air with the other projects mentioned and the whole formidable list is to be put before the voters as an outline of what is to be done next year; but if an administration spends two years in trying how to begin one or two of these undertakings, how long it may be asked, would it take the same body to complete one or two of them?

What the city wants is not a governing administration but a body of men capable of handling these municipal problems in a business-like manner.

Then again Mayor Murphy's distinct pledge not to run again will doubtless be an issue in the campaign.

As a candidate for mayor Dr. Mignault will undoubtedly deal with the mayor's promises and pledges, political and otherwise. He will probably want to know what became of His Honor's promises of economy if elected to the mayoralty. All these matters are fit subjects for discussion in the coming municipal campaign and on one and all the citizens will want full and complete information.

THE PROGRESSIVES

The progressive state convention was not the kind of a gathering usually held by a party about to give up the ghost. In point of fact the party has pulled itself together in Massachusetts and is apparently determined to convince Charles Sumner Bird and Hon. Joseph Walker that it is neither dead nor dying. Both gentlemen were criticized for sacrificing principle to their desire for reward from republican leaders. They were very plainly set down as disappointed office seekers but the delegates showed a determination to get along without these dissidents and proceeded to adopt a platform which is undoubtedly quite progressive.

The effort of Nelson B. Clark, progressive candidate for governor, to inject the sectarian issue into the campaign was met with disapproval and that question was wisely excluded.

The platform has reforms enough to keep congress and the state of Massachusetts going for the next generation. National prohibition and old age pensions, state ownership of railroads, equal suffrage, the initiative and referendum, a non partisan tariff commission, a federal incorporation law, regulation of the trusts so as to insure competition where possible by effective control—these are a few of the leading reforms advocated by the progressive party.

On such a platform there can be no doubt that the party candidates should be able to make a rattling campaign. It is undoubtedly the aim of the party in this state to keep its forces intact in order to be able to take an active part in the national campaign next year. On this ground those who have remained loyal to the progressive party have good reason to complain of the withdrawal of Bird and Walker who on various pretexts have gone back to the republican party.

It appears that the republican hope that the progressive party would soon be dead and buried is not to be realized; and the dilatory of Bird and Walker will do more than they supposed to cement the shattered fragments of the party and bring it new strength in the coming election.

The party leaders paid a nice compliment to Governor Walsh in stating that he is ahead of his party. That is a fact inasmuch as no party comes up to the ideals of its accepted leaders. Governor Walsh is blazing the way for the democracy of Massachusetts and he is willing to join hands with the members of any other party who will assist him in the work. If he is ahead of the democratic party in his ideas of reform and of just government, then much more so must he be ahead of the republican party and even of the progressive party whose high sounding platform it is likely to get.

The progressive party is certainly fighting for a principle and if its hope of having Roosevelt for a presidential candidate next year should be realized, it would have a new lease of life. We surmise however that he will leave this honor to some other big Moose, possibly Governor Johnson of California. Charles Sumner Bird might have been in line for the nomination but for his unexpected flop to the republican ranks. He has lost a great opportunity.

AFTER THE WAR

Edward A. Filene of Boston has constituted himself a prophet of evil to come after the war. For many months he has been telling the people of this country of what a terrible commercial cataclysm will come to us immediately after the war. He predicts that the nations of Europe will dump cheap products on our shores and that the people will try to escape from the tax laden countries recently engaged in war. Unfortunately for those countries, they will not be a menace to any nation after the war. Their financial and industrial resources will be exhausted and they will appeal to us for loans with which to rehabilitate their shattered industries. No doubt many of the people will want to come to these shores and some measures will be needed to prevent an excessive influx. That can be easily remedied. If there is any danger from the cause of which Mr. Filene is apprehensive, that too can be easily taken care of. Hence there is no cause for alarm. There should be a nonpartisan tariff commission to deal with such questions as they come up. Congress can handle them only in a very unsatisfactory manner because there is always the conflicting interest of tariff and anti-tariff, political parties and other influences calculated to prevent a proper settlement.

It seems that all political parties are agreed upon the necessity of a merchant marine, but not upon how we should secure it. They are equally agreed that the federal government should deal with the question of unemployment and the distribution of the immigrants where they are most needed. In the past they have been dumped on the eastern cities without any regard to the chances of employment or whether their settlement there would interfere with existing conditions. There is here a great opportunity for beneficial work in the proper direction of the immigrants reaching our shores for the coming years. Each and all of these problems can be properly met by a democratic administration so that there is no need of presaging evil days and spreading gloomy forebodings on purely imaginary grounds.

DISEASES OVERCOME

One of the doctors of Harvard university after returning from a visit to the trenches on the western battle front asserts that lockjaw and typhoid fever have been completely overcome as a result of the use of specific serum provided for their prevention. He states that out of 17,000 men injured

ed for typhoid there were but two deaths. Typhus has been the great scourge of military camps in past wars including the Spanish-American war in which the death rate among the United States soldiers was quite heavy. Thanks to medical research typhus has been overcome and in the European war, undoubtedly the worst that ever scourged the earth, the almost complete absence of typhoid is quite remarkable.

In the European war, too, the surgeons are making great progress as might be expected, from the many thousands of wounded they have to treat. The Harvard doctor referred to relates a case where a fragment of shell passed through a man's body entering his right breast and passing out near his spine; yet the man, a big strong fellow, recovered so as to feel but slight effect of his wound. There are wonderful feats of surgery performed in the hospitals and the percentage of the wounded who recover would be vastly greater but for the weakness due to loss of blood on the battlefield as in the heat of battle little attention is given the wounded until there comes a lull in the fighting that offers an opportunity to gather up the fallen.

POLICE PROTECTION NEEDED

The highways of this state must be cleared of hoodlums, bandits and drunken chauffeurs. The number of fatal accidents on the highways of this state during the last few months is simply appalling. Something must be done to stop speed madness and the use of the automobile by highwaymen and drunken drivers. It is not an uncommon occurrence for a driver to run over a child or a man and pass on without waiting to see what damage resulted. If the victim in such a case could send a bullet to overtake the fleeing marauder most people would say it served him right. In the majority of cases, however, the culprits escape without leaving any clue to their identity.

In the town of Sandwich recently a party of autoists ran down a motorcyclist, killing him almost instantly and wounding another man. This is but one of many such cases of recent occurrence. It is time the state police adopted some method of suppressing the rowdism, robbery and murder that for some time have rendered the highways of this state extremely dangerous for public travel.

GERMANY'S DISAVOWAL

Germany has come down on the Arabic case. She has shown a sincere desire not to break with the United States. The Arabic note complies with every demand made by President Wilson. That is sufficient. The German government gives further assurance that liners will not be sunk by submarines without warning and an opportunity for the passengers and crew to escape unless the said liners attempt to escape or give battle.

That is all President Wilson has asked. The Imperial government will pay whatever indemnity may be assessed. No government could go further.

PROSPERITY HERE

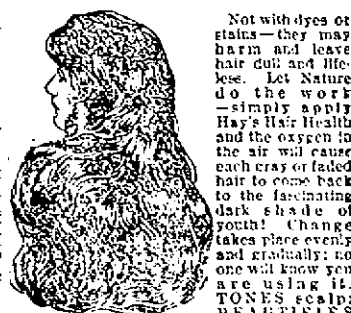

With all our mills and factories working steadily, with the strike of the United States Cartridge Co. settled, with new buildings being erected for the extension of that company's plant and with everybody who wants work now employed, prosperity here is certainly struck our city. There is every indication that the coming winter will be a very prosperous one for Lowell as there is at present no indication of any industrial trouble that would interfere with the work of any of our factories.

SUBURBAN DAY

Suburban day yesterday brought a large influx of people from the surrounding towns and it is safe to say that all found many attractions not only in the holiday attire of our city but in the splendid window displays and the luring bargains offered by the stores.

People who bring star artists to Lowell will probably learn from the McCormack concert that $3 is too

Of all the weapons of industrial warfare the most unjust is the sympathetic strike which in order to compel one of the parties in conflict to give up the fight punishes a third party who has no connection with the trouble and against whom there is no charge.

We have had so much talk about our preparedness for the past year that by this time we should be ready to meet any band of raiders on the Mexican border.

REDUCE INTEREST RATES
COMPTROLLER WILLIAMS DEFENDS EFFORTS TO FORCE BANKERS TO REDUCE CHARGE

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 7.—John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the Kentucky Bankers' association, defended yesterday before the efforts to force national banks to reduce their charges to borrowers during the days of stress in the financial and business world which followed the outbreak of the European war.

Of the 7615 national banks in the country, Mr. Williams declared, 1020 have sent in detailed reports showing that they have received an average of ten per cent or more on loans. He cited, without giving names, instances in which the rate ran up to forty, sixty, one thousand per cent. In one case—that of a woman who borrowed $350 for six days—he said the bank charged one dollar, or 2400 per cent.

"These banks," said Mr. Williams, "are authorized by the government. To an extent at least, they have behind them the sanction, the prestige and the protection of the great American nation—and lending $350 for six days to a washerwoman or a laborer's or a farmer's wife, at 2400 per cent."

"As somebody once said of drug-gists' profits on powdered chalk, it gets out of the range of percentage into the range of the paragon. The hundred per cent will make anarchists shudder, faster than all the I. W. W. apostles who can bowl. When the national banks chartered by the government disappoint and deprive of its just reward, and stimulate resentment, we have prepared and fertilized the soil for a fearful crop of disaster. We cannot persuade ourselves or make others believe that it is right or safe for banks to charge 100 per cent a year."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' purified Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, has been used for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets, while treating patients for chronic constipation. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated olive tablets. They cleanse the bowels and liver and are gentle and pleasant. They never force to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown muck" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—headache—indigestion—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets a bedtime. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep clean. Try them. 10c and 50c per box. At all druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

while the producing people about them are kept poor. I know of such banks. I do not intend to stand for them if I can help it. The country will not stand for them."

Mr. Williams said he invited senate investigation of his actions or the conduct of his office. "A majority of the national banks are now conducting their business on a high and honorable plan and are charging fair and reasonable rates on loans," Mr. Williams said. He predicted that the well-thought out, carefully constructed, conservative system of rural credits for the development of agriculture would come presently and said that in the meantime he expected to do all possible to protect borrowers of all grades against rapacity. He asked the co-operation of all banks further to improve conditions.

The figures he quoted, Mr. Williams said, were taken from the reports of national banks, not pawnbrokers or money sharks. "These banks know," he said, "and you and I know, that such rates are disreputable and without excuse, whatever the security for the loans may be. The bank that lends at such rates is destroying its constituency and it is at the same time committing slow but sure suicide. Some reports from the south and west, the northwest and the southwest, especially in the wheat and cotton sections of the southwest, are blood-curdling. They are stories from darkest Russia, of the oppressions inflicted upon the peasantry. The report received at the comptroller's office show indisputably that in some states and sections, borrowers and specially small borrowers, have been and are being subjected to extortions and exactions which the average man would consider impossible in this enlightened age."

Mr. Williams devoted much of his time to answering criticisms of his action in regard to lower interest rates by Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, in a recent speech before Michigan bankers. He declared Senator Weeks had said that the banker himself was the man to determine interest rates, and in reply read a list of banks which showed an average rate of more than ten per cent. It included two banks in Illinois, six in Minnesota, two in Missouri, twenty-three in Georgia, six in Florida, twenty-one in Alabama, two in Louisiana, three hundred and fifteen in Texas, seventeen in Arkansas, three in Tennessee, ninety in North Dakota, twenty-five in South Dakota, eighteen in Nebraska, five in Kansas, thirty-eight in Montana, fourteen in Wyoming, thirty-seven in Colorado, twenty-five in New Mexico, three hundred in Oklahoma, twelve in Washington, ten in Oregon, thirteen in California, two in Utah, one in Nevada and thirty-three in Idaho. "In one southwestern state," said Mr. Williams, "131 banks reported they charged a maximum rate of interest from 15 to 24 per cent; sixty-seven banks a maximum between twenty-five and sixty per cent, twenty-two banks a maximum between 60 and 100 per cent, eighteen between one hundred and two hundred per cent and eight between two hundred and two thousand per cent. "Most of these disgraceful rates," said the comptroller, "were for comparatively small loans." The legal rate in the state, he pointed out, was six per cent and the maximum authorized by special contract, ten per cent.

Mr. Williams reviewed the financial situation through the first year of the European war. He said that this country had not only avoided financial crash but had wiped out the floating debt of $350,000,000 due to Europe January 1st, 1915, and absorbed between 750 and 1000 millions of dollars of American securities that were held abroad and now in condition to help finance the whole world at the conclusion of the war. He presented as a fact that the United States was now in position to buy back the American securities held in foreign lands, if they should be offered, but that "Europe has come to realize that America is the most stable country on earth" and that investors there cling to American securities as likely to be the best real values "As the American dollar has become the world's standard of value because it commands the world's faith."

Giving figures to substantiate this assurance, the comptroller said, "The estimated gold supply of the United States in gold coin and bullion is more than two million dollars, of which state and national banks hold one billion and the federal reserve banks and the treasury 640 millions, leaving more than four hundred millions in the pockets of the people. At no time in recorded history have the banks of any country held such resources as the banks of this country hold today."

Deposits of all the banks in the United States, including trust companies, had, in the past fifteen years, increased at the average rate of about a billion dollars a year, he said. The income of the people of the United States over the expenses of living and available for development and investment amounts to 5000 million dollars per annum. Mr. Williams said and placed the total at 30,000 millions a year. He said the total wealth of the U. S. is now estimated at 210 billions as compared with 76 billions as the total wealth of Germany in 1911, 55 billions, the total wealth of France in 1905, and 108 billions, the total wealth of the whole British empire, including the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, India and South Africa, by the latest available computation, that of 1905.

Mr. Williams cautioned his hearers that the time may be near when this nation will need its resources and "when even our unappreciated and unequalled strength will be taxed."

"At the close of this great war," he said, "it will be our task to finance the world. We may be the one affluent power. The strain on us will be enormous. We may have to bear too the burden of providing for our own defense. We have learned from observation and from comparison forced upon us how inadequately prepared we are, as a nation, in a home crowded with gold and food, with our doors wide open and not even a gun on the premises. We will have to take care of ourselves and of countries governments and peoples abroad. The one sure foundation, not only of our financial and business structure, but for the government and civilization itself, for safety in the prosperity and peace, is the prosperity and contentment of the individual."

KILLED AT FAIR

Ballonist Fell 800 Ft. to His Death at Brockton Yesterday

BROCKTON, Oct. 7.—Forty thousand persons at the Brockton fair grounds yesterday afternoon gazed horror-stricken while Elmer Olson, ballonist at the fair, plunged at the speed of a rifle bullet 800 feet to his death, when one of the parachutes he used in making his descent failed to open.

Both Olson's legs were broken and he sustained frightful internal injuries from the fall. Patrolman Charles Grow reached him a few minutes after he struck the ground about half a mile from the fair grounds. In the woods off Linwood street, Olson gasped once as the policeman approached and died.

The ballonist was only 22 years of age. He had been employed at fairs in New England during the last five weeks, previous to which he had roomed at 24 Shawmut ave., Boston. Ascensions at the fair are in charge of Prof. P. H. Flower, who in 15 years here had not had an accident.

The three remaining parachutes fell into Olson's lap. From the ground Prof. Flowers could see that something was wrong with the parachute, and he fired a cannon twice as a signal to Olson that he was in danger and that he should use one of the other parachutes for the rest of his descent.

Drops Like a Plummet
Olson, however, was evidently unable to make any of the other parachutes ready. He dropped 800 feet like a plummet, in full view of the big crowd.

Hundreds of persons ran from the fair grounds to the woods where he was dashed to death. Fully 1000 remained near the emergency hospital on the fair grounds, expecting that he would be brought there.

Eager, who had been working with Olson, said after the accident that he would make his usual trips today and Friday. Harold Cates of Newburyport, who has figured in three fatal balloon accidents, will make an ascension today as well.

Olson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Olson of Illinois. Their home is in a small town there, and when they have been located his body will be sent to them. He was a member of the Boston Lodge of Moose.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

SUCCESSOR TO T. ST. JOHN GAFFNEY, CONSUL GENERAL AT MUNICH, HAS NOT BEEN NAMED
WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The resignation of T. St. John Gaffney, American consul general at Munich, requested by the state department because of unneutral utterances, was received yesterday and accepted by cable. Accompanying the resignation was a cablegram naming the names of about a half dozen American residents of Munich, which stated that Mr. Gaffney had performed his duties in a manner, which, as far as they could see, was satisfactory. Mr. Gaffney's successor has not been named.

ROYAL ARCANUM

Industry Council Held
Ladies' Night—A Fine
Entertainment

A very enjoyable ladies' night was conducted last evening by Industry Council, 1772, Royal Arcanum, in the elegantly appointed quarters of the organization, Odd Fellows building, Middlesex street. The treat to the large number of lady friends in attendance followed a short business session over which Regent Harvey Chase presided.

During the early evening tables were arranged around the large meeting hall and when it was played. This form of amusement was enjoyed by all and much friendly rivalry prevailed. When the final count was taken it was found that Miss Elizabeth McConah had outstripped all her feminine competitors in the number of points gained during the playing and she was awarded a suitable prize. Mrs. J. Atherton was presented the second award. The first and second gentlemen's prizes were captured by Henry St. Lawrence and George H. Gurney.

Promptly at 10 o'clock, the tables were pushed back and the guests sat back in their seats and listened to a very creditable musical program presented by talent selected from a number of prominent local musical troupes. The opening number was by the orchestra which rendered a brace of popular medleys and several classical selections. "Jere" Longley, formerly an end man with the famous Bachelor minstrels then made the hit of his long and successful career when he sang "Charlie Chaplin's Feet" and "Everybody Happy." John Grady, a prominent member of the Palmer Circle club, made a decided hit with "She Lives Down in Our Alley," and he was obliged to respond to numerous encores. John Roane sang "Eileen Ashore" in a pleasing manner and his encore number, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was enthusiastically applauded. Joshua Chappell, formerly a favorite in the C. T. performances, recited "Hostler Joe" and "Dancing Jack" McAdams, cabareted around the tables singing "In My Old Kentucky Home." Then came that prince of entertainers, George "Babe" Rogers, who is to appear before the footlights shortly, singing Henck's song hits. This well known local performer received a great hand in acknowledgment of his finished rendition of "When I Got Back to Tennessee" and after a number of encores he gave that ever popular number, "Lonesome Melody." John T. Baxter, one of Lowell's rising tenors, won applause in his number, "Norway," and for an encore he sang, "When I Leave the World Behind." The finale to the altogether pleasing program was a lively selection by the orchestra. Harold McEwan made a very acceptable accompanist during the musical treat and John W. Sharkey introduced the talent in a highly professional manner. Refreshments were served.

Have Pink Cheeks, Red Lips

Some unfortunate men and women are prone to wonder why some of their friends are blessed with an abundance of color—pink cheeks and red lips while theirs are always colorless. The reason for this last named condition is—there is not enough red blood corpuscles in the blood—under a microscope the blood is thin and watery. The flesh is flabby, too. Well-known physicians assert that the regular administration for several months of a strain-tonic tablets will greatly improve the color, add to the weight, make the cheeks pink and the lips red and in general be very beneficial. For self-administration obtain from any drugist. For sale by Dows Pharmacy, Fred Howard, Falls & Burkinshaw, Lowell Pharmacy.

APPEAL FOR RECRUITS

TRADES UNIONS SAY 30,000 WEEKLY
MUST BE RAISED TO MAINTAIN
EFFICIENCY OF BRITISH ARMY

LONDON, Oct. 7.—An appeal for recruits for the British army was issued yesterday by the authorized representatives of the three national committees of trades unions—the parliamentary committee, the general federation of trades unions committee, and the executive committee of the labor party. The manifesto states that tens of thousands of men of military age and fitness have not yet joined the colors. Statistics that equipment and supplies of munitions for these men are ready, the manifesto urges that they assume immediately their share of the burden. Their failure to do so is attributed to the fact that they do not appreciate the seriousness of the situation.

"Thirty thousand recruits weekly," the appeal declares, "must be raised to maintain the efficiency of our armies and secure such a victory as will free the world from the fear of that military tyranny which Germany would impose upon it."

The manifesto, which is addressed by the joint labor board to its "Fellow Countrymen" points out that at no time in the history of the nation has it been faced with a crisis of such gravity as now exists.

"Aggression, carefully planned," it continues, "has after 11 months of war brought German forces into Belgium, France, Poland, Turkey and the Balkan states. We are convinced that Germany is prepared to involve every country in the conflict in order to attain her ends."

The signatories of the manifesto express pride in the achievements of the voluntary system, but add if the system is to be vindicated at least 30,000 recruits weekly must be raised.

The appeal concludes:

"We know that defeat or an inconclusive peace means for us not only loss of prestige as a nation and the certainty that the conflict will be renewed in a few years, but the loss of those personal liberties and privileges which it has taken centuries of effort to win. Responsibility for victory or defeat rests on those who have not yet responded to the call."

The Earl of Derby, it is officially announced, will assume the duties of his new office—the direction of recruiting for the army—next Monday. For the present the existing orders concerning recruiting are to remain in force and every effort will be made to secure new men.

The "pink form" method of classification also is to be continued. These forms were issued to the registration officers at the time of the national registration for the purpose of obtaining particulars concerning men of military age who were not serving with the army or navy or in munition works.

The Earl of Derby intends to confer with the parliamentary committee of the trades union congress and the parliamentary recruiting committee as to the best and most effective way of utilizing for recruiting purposes the information contained in these forms.

The appointment of the Earl of Derby at the request of Lord Kitchener to take charge of the recruiting for the army comes at a moment when the recruiting system is under serious public criticism. Lord Derby has been an indefatigable worker in striving to obtain the best results from the voluntary system and he is expected to command the confidence of all parties. The liberal papers are very hopeful of his success. The Chronicle says editorially:

"What is wanted in the war office recruiting department is, frankly, a new broom. And if a person of Lord Derby's authority and antecedents cannot discharge that difficult problem the Augean stable must be even worse than some of us suppose."

ARMENIANS WIPED OUT

POPULATION ABSOLUTELY EXTERMINATED IN ONE DISTRICT, SAYS
MARQUIS OF CREWE

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Replying to a question by Lord Crowder in the house of lords yesterday, the Marquis of Crewe, lord president of the council, said that information which had reached the government in regard to the massacre of Armenians was based mainly on statements from this.

In one district, it was declared, the population had been absolutely exterminated, and the most terrible description was given of the condition of the country.

The government, he continued, had no official confirmation of statements that German consular representatives in Asia had exaggerated these horrors, but the statements had been made by an observer from the United States and he was bound to say that, knowing what had happened elsewhere, there could not be said to be antecedent improbabilities that such was the case. The government had not thought, said the Marquis of Crewe, that any advantage would follow from an attempt to make either direct or indirect representations to the Turkish government on the subject.

Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, said that such information as had reached him from many quarters showed that the figure of 800,000 Armenians destroyed since May was quite a possible number. Virtually the whole nation had been wiped out, he declared, and he did not suppose there was a case in history of a crime "so hideous and on so large a scale."

The means for saving the unfortunate remnants of the Armenian people, added Viscount Bryce, was to be found, he believed, in the expression of the opinion of the world, especially of neutral countries, which might possibly exert some influence on the German government and induce it to take steps to prevent further massacres.

The lord mayor at a meeting at the Mansion House on the 15th will start a fund for the aid of Armenian refugees. Among the speakers will be Viscount Bryce, Cardinal Bourne and T. P. O'Connor.

GERMAN MINISTER AT ATHENS

PARIS, Oct. 7, 9 a. m.—A special to the Paris Journal from Athens says the rupture between King Constantine and M. Venizelos followed a visit of the German minister to the king immediately after the session of the chamber at which Venizelos outlined the policy he expected Greece to follow.

MAY SHORTEN THE WAR

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 6, via Paris, Oct. 7, 9 a. m.—Senator Salandra, announced an important cabinet council according to the Stampa's Rome correspondent, that the Italian diplomatic policy in dealing with Bulgaria had been all along in line with that of the allies and would continue to be. He declared that any diplomatic action taken by Italy's allies would be taken also by Italy and that such action was imminent.

The premier is reported to have asserted that his government viewed the Balkan situation calmly, believing it might have the advantage of shortening the war and bringing about the final success of the allies. He announced that all military matters had been taken into the war now in progress on Italy's frontiers and that impending in the Balkans.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"The Mistletoe Lady," the greatest play success in many seasons, is packing the Opera House to the very doors this week, and all records are certain to be smashed. The play has made a terrific hit with the patrons of Lowell and the surrounding towns, and the management has received many splendid letters of congratulation on securing such a strong attraction. To avoid disappointment, patrons are advised to make reservations early as the demand for seats is exceptional and surpasses all previous weeks. The box office is open daily from 3 a. m. to 10 p. m., and the phone number is 261.

The play is unusual in its story, and is entirely original, and the scenes introduced are new. How a woman flirts with a man, displays her ankles, bares her neck, extracts a proposal of marriage from him, laughs at him and gets away with him, is the plot. The play is well told in this play. There are many great characters in the play, but none so delightful as "Boney," the harmless nut. Played by Joe Graham, it is one of the brightest features of the attraction, and to see this "nut" is to love him. Homer Barton, Ann O'Day, Walter von Doekman, Carson Davenport, Clara Booth, Clara Sidney, Dorel Gresham, Richard Barry, Frank Wright, George Hunt, Albert Cast and other popular members of the company portray their characters splendidly.

and ran for over 18 months there. It is described as the dramatic earthquake. It is a big, gripping drama that everyone will want to see. Seats are now selling for all the week, and should be secured early.

Sunday at the Opera House

Sunday afternoon and night, the Opera House will offer another gala program of vaudeville and picture features. There will be two shows, one in the afternoon at 2:15 and the evening show will start at 7:30. Seats are now selling for both shows. There will be an exceptionally good program of vaudeville as well as the latest releases in pictures. Secure seats now.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

In Dooley and Sales, Keith's theatre this week has a 10-act strike. No brighter, cleverer entertainers in their special eleven have appeared in a local theatre in many months than are they. Their patter is not only new, much of it, but it is served in a manner which never fails to strike an audience. Dooley is a natural comedian, bright as a dollar, and never at a loss to say the thing which will bring a laugh. Miss Sales is most attractive, and she, too, has much ability as a comedian. Elsie Gilbert and her Romping Girls furnish another act which invariably brings much applause. Miss Gilbert makes a specialty of off characters. Her four girl assistants are pretty and lively, and their Scotch collies run and jump about in a fascinating manner. It is a wholly likeable musical comedy. Dooley and Sales, tight wire performers, do all of the modern dances on the wire, and throw in some acrobatics which are startling. "Red Cross Mary" is a burlesque on the war, it is very well acted. Marshall Montgomery, ventriloquist, is the king of all such performers, while Olden and Harrow sing and make up. Leonard Kane in "Beauty and the Beast" has a novel act, and the Heart-Bell News Pictorial shows many new views. Yesterday afternoon, A. Ducharme of 61 Farmland road, won the 51-piece dinner set donated by the Maxia Co. Mr. Ducharme was the holder of the lucky seat cheque.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A new program starts today at the Merrimack Square theatre, and it is one of exceptional length and high quality. The program consists of two five-act features, a comedy hit and the travel pictures. One of the five-act dramas for the last three days of this week is entitled "Zaza," and is produced by the Paramount company. It features the celebrated Pauline Frederick of "The Eternal City" fame, and "Sold." The play is a picture adaptation of the play of the same name which brought great renown to Sarah Bernhardt on the legitimate stage. Miss Frederick is called upon to play the very emotional role of "Zaza," the London dancing girl, and her playing in this feature is nothing short of wonderful. At other theatres where she has played this feature, she has charmed thousands. You will like her in this play. The title of the other five-act play for today, tomorrow and Saturday is "The Patria." This feature is a very emotional drama, and is along with the price of admission. The capable Florence Turner will be seen in a very humorous comedy, and the new picture of "The Patria" will also be shown today. Don't forget that the concert next Sunday will consist of a number of carefully booked vaudeville hits and entertaining pictures.

At the Merrimack Square Theatre

JEWELL THEATRE
The 15th episode of "The Broken Coin" is even more thrilling than its predecessors. This serial, shown at the Jewell Theatre in two real state mansions every Wednesday and Thursday, has proven the best liked in Lowell. Crowded houses greet each new episode. A line surrounding the theatre has been gathering since the first feature for a night, and the performance is a delightful one. Coming Friday and Saturday, Gladys Brockwell and Courtney Foote in the four-act, real masterpiece, "Out of the Depths." A virile story told in a novel one, and many striking scenes have been photographed. Many features will be shown up a 10-reel show for the end-of-the-week performance. Get the Jewell habit.

OWL THEATRE

If you want your money's worth, the Owl theatre is offering it for today. Vail Vail is seen in the five-act play, "The High Road," and a star Thant-houser cast is seen in a three-part Mutual film play, "Discipline." A virile story told in a novel one, and many striking scenes have been photographed. Many features will be shown up a 10-reel show for the end-of-the-week performance. Get the Jewell habit.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

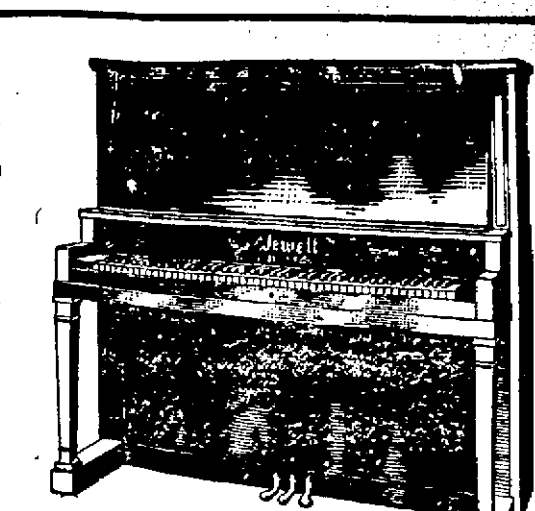

"The Heart of Lady Alaine," a romance of the French revolution, with Betty Nansen in the leading role, is the musical attraction at the Academy of Music the last three days this week. Miss Nansen is celebrated for her dramatic fervor, and she has few equals before the camera today. As Lady Alaine, she has a part which gives opportunity for unusual expression, and she makes the most of it. Several of the climaxes are said to be realistic.

In addition to the feature, the Academy presents the Vitaphone thriller, "The Tigress," a story of city life. "The Girl and Her Trust," and "Queenie of the Nile," a Lubin comedy. Among the features the auxiliary program are Dorothy Bernard, Robert Herron, Charles Mailles and Alfred Paget.

Mrs. L. M. Featherston of Chicago, captain of a five-woman team which claims the woman's trap shooting championship of the world, has issued a deft to any female team in the country for a series of matches.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Painters' union is scheduled to hold a very important meeting tonight in the Rumels building.

The Trades & Labor council, at its meeting scheduled for tonight in Middle street will elect officers for the ensuing six months.

French Carpenters' union, local 1619, held a meeting last night in the Rumels building at which a number of reports were submitted and considerable routine business was transacted.

The Cigarmakers' union held a trades business session last evening in Trades & Labor hall, Middle street, and dealt with a list of minor matters which came up for discussion.

Arthur R. Sharp, treasurer of the Hamilton Mfg. Co., of this city and the Sharp Mfg. Co. of New Bedford has been elected director of the newly organized Metropolitan Trust Co. of Boston.

Bill Lane of the Mullaney Plumbing Co. has been selected as interlocutor for the coming minstrel show to be produced by the members of the Temperance club. He showed to good advantage at the rehearsal last evening and as a result the boys are proud of him.

John H. Downing, vice president of the Trades & Labor council, has just started to show up regularly at the union headquarters since he was elected to New Bedford. Mr. Downing was made ill by drinking the water in the whaling town at the state branch convention.

Sping Splinter Plavers' union, local 31, met last night in Middle street and appointed a committee to audit the books of the organization. It was decided to drop all members who are six weeks in arrears in the payment of their dues. Two new members were initiated and Organizer Thomas F. McMahon addressed the gathering.

Organizers Frank H. McCarthy, T. P. McMahon and D. E. Whelan and President Frank Warrack of the Trades & Labor council are expected to address a meeting of the blacksmiths, tomorrow night in Leather Vendors' hall Central street. Following the meeting officers for the year will be elected.

Organizer Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers' union arrived in this city last night after a short stay in Bridgeport, Conn., where he was in charge of three textile strikes. Mr. McMahon reports that one of the strikes is as good as settled and that the remaining number will be straightened out within a very short time.

Thirty-five hundred mill employees in Nashua, N. H., are now idle because of a strike of 200 operatives employed at the Nashua Mfg. Co. About 1000 of the total number are employees of the Jackson Mfg. Co., who walked out in sympathy with the employees of the Nashua Mfg. Co. The strike is the sure having its troubles, and if the city officials do not step into the breach quickly with a view to bringing about speedy settlement, the strike may assume large proportions.

Ross Hall, New England business agent and organizer for the International Machinists' union was in this city last night and conducted a largely attended meeting of machinists in Odd Fellows building. Notwithstanding the fact that several threats were made against the organizer as a result of the strike at the U. S. Cart-ridge Co., Mr. Hall walked the streets freely greeting three workers employed in the majority of cases he was given a warm reception. In an interview with the writer last night, Organizer Hall, said he is glad the strike is over and that he has no apologies to make to anybody relative to the part he took in bringing about an understanding between the company officials and the cartridge workers.

Patrick Sullivan of Upland street who has had charge of the wet finishing department of the Merrimack Woolen mill for some time past, has accepted a similar position in Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Sullivan is a local young man who has made rapid advancement in the mill business. During his employment he gained the confidence of his superiors for his capacity and also the esteem and respect of the employees throughout the department. His many intimate friends as well as his former employers wish him continued success in his new position.

PARKHILL WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

The baseball team of the Parkhill Mfg. Co., Fitchburg, won the amateur championship of that city by winning 15 out of 19 games played during the last season.

The team received the most enthusiastic and loyal support from the owners and employees of the Parkhill's mills, and that helped to create a spirit that had much to do with the success of the team. The mill owners presented the players handsome and serviceable uniforms, while the overseers offered a silver trophy to the winning team of the Industrial league. In addition, boxes of cigars and other presents were hung up for various degrees of prowess, so that the players were always inspired to do their best work. Manager Markham directed the season with the cleverness of a big league magnate.

The players were as follows: Pol-lari rf, Nea c, ward p, rf, T. Caouette 3b, A. Caouette lf, p, Stanton cf, E. Caouette 2b, Kilmartin cf, lb, Willetto cf, Ruffalo ss, Forbes 1b, if, Winslow p, Sullivan 1b, rf, McNally c, Stevenson cf, Eleton p, Edwards cf, Lavale p.

She says he gave her a powder that he said was a cold mixture, and that soon after she swallowed it she began to lose consciousness. When she realized that she had been drugged she jumped from the automobile, she says, and remembers nothing more until she found herself in City hospital.

RUTH BARNEY OF OXFORD FOUND UNCONSCIOUS—SAYS SHE JUMPED FROM MACHINE IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Oct. 7.—Ruth Barney, aged 23, who says her home is in Oxford, found lying unconscious on the sidewalk at Southbridge and South-gate streets last night by Policemen Gardner and Powers, tells the police that she was drugged by a man whose name she does not know. Miss Barney is at City hospital in a critical condition.

After regaining consciousness at the hospital, Miss Barney told the police that she has been searching for work and came to Worcester a week ago. She claims that last night the man offered her an automobile ride, and while they were riding she complained of having a cold.

She says he gave her a powder that he said was a cold mixture, and that soon after she swallowed it she began to lose consciousness. When she realized that she had been drugged she jumped from the automobile, she says, and remembers nothing more until she found herself in City hospital.

3-IN-ONE OIL

3-in-One is the lubricant for sewing machines, talking machines, etc. It removes dirt and grease from the bearings, reduces friction, prevents wear and makes any machine work easier and better and last longer. It is like another pair of hands for cleaning and polishing furniture, bath-room fixtures, hardwood floors, metal door plates and everything about the home indoor or out. No housewife can afford to be without 3-in-One.

Telephone By-Ways

Hundreds of small villages, away from main-travelled roads, are readily accessible to salesmen who know how inexpensive and how easy it is to telephone these places from convenient junction points.

Sometimes it is impossible to "make" all these places each trip, or personally to visit each customer often than once a year.

A telephone call is the best known substitute for a personal visit. It keeps one's personality alive. It gratifies the customer. And frequently it pays for itself a hundred-fold by the casual re-orders it induces.

There will be no toll charge on a particular Party Call if you are not connected with the person whose name you have given to the Toll Operator.

THE SPELLBINDER

For nearly one year the members of the present administration at city hall have been holding their popularity through proposed public improvements on a large scale, such as the Pawtucket bridge and the Dummer street extension which many people wanted; and the high school that is badly needed; and the contagious hospital which under the present administration has been built some time ago. They started to make these improvements honestly enough, but as they proceeded upon one after another they encountered difficulty after difficulty, and resented one action after another and starting on different lines of action until the campaign days have been passing and now we find the same administration that nine months ago was so keen upon bringing about these different improvements using every means at its command to postpone any further action upon them until after election time.

The fact of the matter is that the municipal council has not and does not measure up to the obligations imposed upon it. It can detect crop shatters, speakeasy keepers and arrest Sunday soap sellers quite successfully; it can purchase a matter for two years, while all have been on the bridge and hospital propositions for nearly one year, and nothing has been accomplished except to waste money in interest on loans not as yet utilized.

Many well known heavy paying citizens, men of affairs, representing political parties, who one year ago were strong supporters of the administration, now do not hesitate to state that the municipal council from its inaction in dealing with the city's business has lost the confidence of the business community. The council is not possessed of sufficient business ability to be permitted to handle the building of a $700,000 high school, an $80,000 bridge or a $60,000 hospital. All of these big projects must postpone until another year, for the contagious hospital, the bridge, the high school, the hospital, not even the site has been purchased as yet, the project that the law said must be under way by Sept. 1. It is, therefore, incumbent upon the voters to exercise discrimination in their selection of municipal candidates, for the city's future depends on the council that is elected and likewise bearing in mind the sorry experience of the present administration in dealing with them.

Another Funny Blunder

The cemetery trustees have been most desirous of having the ordinance amended so that the power would be superintended of cemetery to elect a superintendent from the municipal council and given to them. Now the ordinance has been amended and what's the result? The cemetery trustees must take their superintendent from the civil service list, and apparently they're as badly off as they ever were.

Appointed Not Engaged

We are informed that Mayor Murphy has said: "I have decided to appoint James E. McLaughlin as superintendent of the city hall, but I do not want him to be under my pay until we need his services."

We are duly grateful for our increased knowledge of English, for it would appear that "appoint" means, without pay, while "engage" means with pay, a distinction that previously drawn by the dictionary. Thus assuming that when the mayor engages Mr. McLaughlin the latter will be under pay, the inference is that his honor must know that Mr. McLaughlin's pay is going to be once he becomes engaged, and that's what the public, particularly that part of it that deals in architecture and building for a living would like to know. In appointing a Boston man Mayor Murphy did better than had he taken the advice of the school board and gone out to Philadelphia, St. Louis or some other distant place for his architect. It seems to be the object of the school board to get away from Lowell as possible, in looking around for department employees. In commenting upon the qualifications of the new architect, Mayor Murphy mentioned the fact that Mr. McLaughlin was the architect of St. Margaret's church. In justice to Mr.

McLaughlin his honor should have explained that Mr. McLaughlin designed the plans of the beautiful little Highland church but did not supervise its construction, for recently the parishioners of St. Margaret's won a suit against the contractors who built the church, as the result of improper work, of which, of course, the architect was in no way responsible.

While a Boston architect is brought to Lowell to supervise a big job local architects have been in the past and are still being appointed and engaged to erect big buildings in other cities, as far away from home as Washington, D. C.

One of our critics has called our attention to the fact that we have referred to Mr. McLaughlin as a "superintendent" architect, when as a matter of fact he is a consulting architect. To say that he is a consulting architect for the present, he couldn't be the supervising architect as there is nothing to supervise. But we'll venture the prediction that while appointed or engaged, whichever it may be, as a consulting architect, when the proper time comes he'll be the supervising architect, and a good one at that, and one who will demand more than a dollar a day for his services. And another prediction, Mr. Denman was appointed, drafted, or engaged as the consulting architect for the Pawtucket bridge, but if there's any way under the blue canopy of heaven that this administration can get things going, he'll be the supervising architect as well.

A Neglected Need

While the municipal council has been concerned with the contagious hospital, the bridge, the high school and the hospital, the high school and hospital propositions for nearly one year, and nothing has been accomplished except to waste money in interest on loans not as yet utilized.

Many well known heavy paying citizens, men of affairs, representing political parties, who one year ago were strong supporters of the administration, now do not hesitate to state that the municipal council from its inaction in dealing with the city's business has lost the confidence of the business community. It is, therefore, incumbent upon the voters to exercise discrimination in their selection of municipal candidates, for the city's future depends on the council that is elected and likewise bearing in mind the sorry experience of the present administration in dealing with them.

Another Funny Blunder

The cemetery trustees have been most desirous of having the ordinance amended so that the power would be superintended of cemetery to elect a superintendent from the municipal council and given to them. Now the ordinance has been amended and what's the result? The cemetery trustees must take their superintendent from the civil service list, and apparently they're as badly off as they ever were.

Appointed Not Engaged

In commenting upon the qualifications of the new architect, Mayor Murphy mentioned the fact that Mr. McLaughlin was the architect of St. Margaret's church. In justice to Mr.

the demand upon St. Joseph's school becomes so large that all cannot be accommodated and the overflow is obliged to have recourse to the public schools, where will they go, if the Bartlett and Pawtucketville schools are too small to accommodate the present demands upon them? Whether through "apprise" against Commissioner Putnam, or just plain short-sightedness the municipal council has failed to provide adequate school accommodations and has wasted its time seeking votes through promises of bridges and street extensions, all of which like the school accommodations must finally be provided by some future government.

Another Promise

Mayor Murphy is reported to have said that East Merrimack street shall be a white way next year, and that he intends to provide for it in next year's budget. Watch out. Don't make any bets; it's only a promise. Mayor Murphy, of course, assumes that he will be in office next year. It might have sounded better had his honor stated that in the event of his re-election he would have the improvement provided for in next year's budget.

When the white way fever struck the town, Mayor Murphy's friends and neighbors of Belvidere requested a white way for East Merrimack street. The mayor turned them down, telling them that the proposition was out of the question as the city had no money for the improvement. He also told the Middlesex street merchants that they could have a hearing but no lights, as the city had no money for them. But along came Tommy Fitzgerald with his celebrated demand and the mayor forthwith found the necessary money to install the lights in Middlesex street.

The Belvidere people being friends and neighbors were "with" the mayor anyway and could be passed up, but the Middlesex street merchants were not necessarily his supporters and had to be "taken care of," and they were. Now comes the mayor, as a candidate, promising to do something next year, that he flatly refused to do during the present term. That may satisfy the people of Belvidere. But the market quotation on Mayor Murphy's campaign promises has slumped quite a few points in the past year.

Property Owners Worried

That apart taken by the municipal council, last week, after the members of the school board had made some very pointed remarks about the delay in starting, seems to have been only temporary for at this week's meeting with all members present there was nothing further done in the matter, the excuse given last week being that all of the members were not at the meeting. It begins to look as if the tenants in Belvidere and Anna street will be permitted to remain in their buildings until the real cold weather comes when they'll be turned out. The owners are still wondering how the municipal council is going to make good its promises on the settlements when the law states that any price greater than 25 per cent above the assessed value must be determined by the court. To some people it looks as if the high school proposition is the rock upon which the municipal bark is going to go to pieces in the coming elections. But then there are other rocks, in addition to those under Pawtucket bridge.

The Man in the Moon

"Recently I was reminded of the words of the old song: 'The man in the moon is looking love' when I read in the 'Man in the Moon' column of the Sun an account of a narrow escape from accident which Supt. Welch underwent while driving the new police auto on Dracont on a pleasant Sunday afternoon. Wonder how he recognized the machine. It isn't lettered, as per the Duncan ordinance. But the fact that the big chief was having a ride in Dracont on Sunday would tend to correct an erroneous impression of some people who tried to spread abroad the effect that the principal use of the new auto on Sundays is to tour the different routes and keep tabs on the patrolmen. The city of Lowell has no patrolmen in Dracont and hence the chief was not looking them over at that time.

Got His 1915 Bill

When the park board informed Mr. Alfred T. Cates that he would have to bear a part of the expense of mowing a tree from in front of his premises, Mr. Cates replied that he would not bear any part of the expense as his taxes already are too high. Mr. Cates made the statement that the city has assessed him 15 cents per foot for land for which he couldn't get two cents in the market.

Mr. Cates is one of the many citizens who are wondering why that reduction of $1.10 in the tax rate from that of the year previous is anything for the municipal council to brag about.

A Shame to Wake Him Up

"Gee, I've been looking over the papers for a long time to find out what the liquor cops were doing up in Ward 1. I often find it in front of me, but I can't find it." Thus spake a ward 4 man to a friend a few days ago.

His friend said it was a shame to wake him up.

The innocent citizen assumed that the liquor inspectors were there to enforce the liquor laws under the three rights disposition. But such was not the case, and they haven't been seen there since the night of the primaries. It's doubtful if they congratulated Mr. O'Connell on his success. They might have heard something from John J. had they done so.

What a Difference

It is rather amusing to find the most loud-mouthed critic of the police department two years ago, now defending the police.

Another Difference

Two years ago, by the by, complaint was made that girls were being sold liquor in hotels. This year they don't have to go to hotels for they are being sold liquor at tables openly in at least one well known place that hasn't the protection of a hotel license. And they're pretty young lookers, too.

More Salaries Boosted

Within a short time several salaries have been raised in the different departments at city hall. Perhaps not in the departments of the two cops who were not in front of me, but in the others. One young man who a short time ago was getting $15 per week now enjoys a weekly stipend of $25, while other substantial increases, made without any flourish of trumpets, are to be noted on the pay rolls.

BIG STEEL DEAL TO KEEP CANAL OPEN

$100,000,000 Corporation Takes in Three Companies

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Announcement was made last night that the Midvale Steel and Ordnance company, a $100,000,000 corporation recently organized by WILLIAM E. COREY, in addition to purchasing the Midvale Steel company, has acquired three other concerns and had secured an option on 300,000,000 tons of iron ore.

The three concerns are the Worthington company of Coatesville, Pa., manufacturer of steel plates; the Coatesville Riffing Mill company, which is allied with the Worthington and the Remington Arms company of Delaware, a concern recently organized to manufacture arms and ammunition at Edgemoor, Pa. The latter company, which has leased properties of the Baldwin Locomotive works and is building another plant, is a separate organization. It is understood, from the Remington Arms & Ammunition company of Hylon, N. Y., but the announcement made last night disclosed that Marcellus H. Dodge, president of the Remington Arms & Ammunition company, is a director of the new Midvale combination.

With the exception of the United States Steel corporation the new Midvale company becomes the largest steel concern in point of capitalization in the country, and although Mr. Corey, who made the announcement of its additional acquisitions, declined to discuss the plans of the company, it was thought among steel men that certain other concerns probably will be taken in.

The Midvale Steel Ordnance company stands as a holding company for the properties acquired and Mr. Corey's announcement said that in order to acquire these concerns and to provide working capital, $70,000,000 of its stock would be issued.

In addition to Mr. Dodge the directors of the company include Frank A. Vanderbilt, president of the National City bank; Percy A. Rockefeller, Albert H. Wiggin, president of the Chase National bank; Charles H. Sablin, president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York; Frederic W. Allen, representing Lee, Higginson & Co. of Boston; Ambrose Monell, president of the International Nickel company; Samuel P. Pryor, a director of the Baldwin Locomotive works; William P. Barba, vice-president of the old Midvale Steel company, and Alva C. Dinwiddie, the newly-elected president of the old Midvale Steel company. Mr. Corey promises president of the holding company and Mr. Dinwiddie vice-president.

TWO DEAD; TWO DYING

FARMER SHOTS UP FAMILY AND THEN COMMITTS SUICIDE IN A DISPUTE OVER APPLES

PERU, Ind., Oct. 7.—Because of a disagreement over the division of the apple crop from a small orchard located on a farm near here, August Bert Fear, 45 years old, resident here, shot and killed his wife and three children, and then committed suicide.

Bert, the owner of the farm, it is said, had an agreement to divide the crop of apples in a certain way and in fact he had done so. His wife, who was a mother of three children, saw his tenant's wife and three children. Returning from another part of the farm, Fear was shot and killed by Bert, who then killed himself.

ORDERS FROM MANCHURIA

American commercial travelers are now penetrating far into northern Manchuria. Consul Moser reports from Harbin to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, that he is busy introducing American trade solicitors to Russian firms. The consul says he endeavors to be personally acquainted with the managers of every importing firm in his district. When the American commercial travelers arrive at Harbin, the consul introduces them, and gives them useful information. The result is that the buyer and seller are mutually assisted. Recent orders thus placed in Harbin for American goods include Pennsylvania water cases, $55,000 worth of Massachusetts shoes, New York roofing, California dried fruits and Pennsylvania rubber goods, while several orders are pending for railway supplies and other goods.

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce has gathered considerable data about Manchuria which American manufacturers who want to know.

LOYAL CLUB MEETING

The October meeting of the Loyal club was held last evening at the home of Mrs. John A. Simpson. At the regular business session 2 new members were proposed for membership, and a list of important business was transacted. Following the meeting a delightful musical program was carried out, there were piano duets by Misses Hurley and Elizabeth Fulton, vocal selections by Mr. Donald Hanson, violin solos by Master Edwin McLean and innovations on the piano by Mr. George Faulkner. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Fred Lacey, Mrs. E. Kidder and Misses Carley, Fulton and Hanson. The next meeting will be conducted at the home of Mrs. Fred Lacey, 252 Pawtucket street.

WAR MANEUVERS

Torpedo Boat Destroyers to Make Attack On Coast Defenses of Boston

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—While the main part of the Atlantic fleet is engaged in war maneuvers along the whole Atlantic coast, a detachment of torpedo boat destroyers was detailed today to participate in a mimic attack on the coast defenses of this city. This was "game" was distinct from the larger operation.

On the theory that the "enemy" had landed, an army north of Boston and was preparing for a direct naval assault on the harbor defenses, the various forces were called upon to summon all their powers of defense. Boats, channel markers and lighthouse illuminations were theoretically removed to hamper the approach of the hostile fleet.

GEN. GOETHALS WITHDRAWS HIS RESIGNATION TO FIGHT AGAINST PANAMA CANAL SLIDES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Gen. George W. Goethals has withdrawn his resignation as governor of the Panama canal zone.

This fact was announced by Gen. Goethals last night on his arrival on board the steamer Cristobal, from New York, after a vacation spent in the United States. His action was taken, he said, in view of the recent slides in the Gallatin cut, which have closed traffic through the canal. Gen. Goethals said he would remain in Panama until the condition of the canal would permit of its being opened. Further, he said, he would make it his duty to make this announcement and to say that he had called Secretary of War Garrison withdrawing his resignation, which was to have become effective Nov. 7. Gen. Goethals had nothing to say concerning the canal.

He seemed eager to enter upon the work of combating the slide. He will discuss the situation today with Lt. Col. Chester Harding, engineer in charge of the canal, and afterward make a personal study of the slides.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Secretary Garrison has given Maj. Gen. Goethals permission to withdraw his resignation.

Gen. Goethals was not content to separate himself from the canal at the present time, said Acting Secretary Breckenridge. "He expressed the wish that he be permitted to continue in charge of the zone until the landslides have been checked and the waterway opened to traffic without interruption."

THE AMERICAN DOLLAR IN CHILE

New York exchange has taken the place of London exchange for Chilean nitrate sales, according to a report just received by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, department of commerce, at Washington. Consul General Keena at Valparaiso announces the sale to an American firm of 4000 tons of nitrate with payment by draft on New York for $155,000. However, he adds that since there is no American bank in Chile, much of the benefit of the tendency to establish dollar exchange must be lost, as this type of exchange is only temporarily favored by foreign banks.

American banking opportunities in South America are being given special attention by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. Its investigator, Mr. Lough, has just returned from there, and his book describing these opportunities is now in press.

ACCEPT ROCKEFELLER PLAN

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 7.—Complete returns from 13 camps, including all of the Las Animas and Huerfano counties, today indicate the adoption of the Rockefeller industrial plan by employees of the Colorado Fuel & Iron company by a ratio of at least 8 to 1. The total vote recorded was 1,930. Against 220. The referendum vote was to be taken in the Fremont county camps yesterday. Reports still were lacking from one or two camps in western Colorado.

The camps in Fremont county and western Colorado still to be heard from represent only a small percentage of the company employees, insufficient to change the result approving the Rockefeller proposal.

A DUAL CELEBRATION

Phillips Exeter Academy Will Dedicate New Building and Celebrate Founder's Day

EXETER, N. H., Oct. 7.—The Phillips Exeter Academy is making elaborate preparations for the dedication of its new $200,000 building and the celebration of Founder's Day this coming Saturday. The new building, which was designed by Cram and Ferguson, is called on for its location, one of the school the finest buildings of its kind in the world. It is fitting that at its dedication, the exercises should be of an unusual character.

These exercises will begin with a procession to the new building. It will be led by a band, and will include the governor of New Hampshire and his staff, representatives of many schools and colleges, the trustees and faculty, the alumni, and the five hundred and fifty students of the academy.

The dedication will follow, with addresses by Dr. Lewis Farrow, principal of the academy, Sidney Smith, president of the trustees, Principal Hibben of Princeton, Principal Stearns of Andover, and Thomas W. Lamont, an alumnus, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan and company.

The Latin motto, taken from the old Academy bell in the second academy building erected in 1810, "Huc veritas per viam aeternam," has been inscribed on the marble entrance of the new building. For this occasion, this call reversed, "Come hither, men, that you may become boys," will summon alumni from every quarter to renew their acquaintance with the academy, the governor's staff, and many men eminent in business and the professions.

An additional attraction for the day will be the football game between Exeter and Worcester academy, which will be played on the Exeter playing field in the afternoon. Luncheon and tea will be served at the new graduates house for the alumni and invited guests. Entertainment will also be provided for the wives and families of the alumni. Every thing seems to indicate that October 24th, 1915, will be one of the great days in the Academy's history.

Pierre, S. D., now boasts a woman policeman in the person of Mrs. Ruth Phipple, who will make it her special duty to look after the cleanliness as well as the safety of the city streets.

CHOOSING A LAXATIVE

In treating chronic constipation, harsh cathartics should be avoided. A mild laxative should be used until regular habits are established, and then gradually are not equally safe and efficient. Some act quickly but in the end increase the constipation. Others cause intestinal colic, inflammation of the bowels and nausea. Oil and salts should not be used regularly.

Pinklets, the little pink laxative granules, are safe under any and all conditions, do not conflict with other medicines and form an ideal laxative to keep in the house ready for use when required. Pinklets will be sent by mail at 25 cents per box by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., if your druggist cannot supply you.

MILL MAN'S MACHINE RUNS DOWN DAUGHTER OF POLICEMAN

FALL RIVER, Oct. 7.—Esther Lomax, 8-year-old daughter of Patrolman Joseph F. Lomax, of the local police department, was instantly killed on Stafford road last night when she was struck by an automobile owned and operated by John H. Estes, president of the Chase & Estes mills. Mr. Estes is about 50 years old and one of the most widely known manufacturers in the city.

The child was on her way to a store and had taken less than a dozen steps from the curbstone when she was struck.

Her father, on his way home from work, stepped off a car at the scene of the accident and did not know who the victim was until he gazed into the face of his own child.

A rigid investigation is being conducted by the police.

INJURED INTERNALLY

HANSON, Oct. 7.—Romeo Rabideau, 5-year-old son of Robert Rabideau, was struck and seriously injured early this evening by an auto owned by G. W. Mann of School street and driven by his son, Shirley Mann.

The little fellow ran from a walk directly in front of the car. He was thrown to the ground and the front wheel passed over his body. In the car with Mr. Mann was Arthur Williams, son of Rev. W. P. Williams of the M. E. church.

They picked the injured boy up and took him to the office of Dr. G. E. Leonard. After an examination the physician rushed the lad to the Brockton hospital, where it was found he was suffering from internal injuries, and his name was placed on the dangerous list.

AGED MAN BADLY HURT

HAVENHILL, Oct. 7.—John H. Buckley, 81 years old of 30 Oak terrace was struck near his home last night by the automobile of Mrs. Mary Brackett of 83 Kenosia avenue. Mrs. Brackett, by injured that his condition is considered critical.

Mr. Buckley was crossing the street and was almost in front of the machine when first seen by its driver, J. Edward Brackett, a real estate dealer. It was then too late to prevent the accident.

Mr. Brackett took Mr. Buckley to his home nearby in the automobile. Dr. Cutter, who was called, found the aged man suffering from a broken collar bone, many bruises and the shock.

WOMAN BADLY BRUISED

BROCKTON, Oct. 7.—Miss Georgia Gramont of 25 Prince street was run into by the automobile of Henry Holbrook of Whitman as she was crossing East Main street last night. She was badly bruised, but no bones were broken.

Mr. Holbrook did not see her until the car struck her. Her injuries were attended to at the emergency room at the police station, a few doors away, and she later went home.

SATURDAY MOVING PICTURES

To Be Given Under the Direction of the Educational Committee of the Woman's Club

The Lowell Woman's club has eagerly fallen into line with other cities in giving to the children an opportunity to see the best photoplays that have been produced.

The educational committee of that club have been diligent at work for a long time; they have studied, classified and selected their programs with the result that not only the children but the adults will find the coming entertainments deeply interesting and amusing as well as instructive.

The office of the committee has not been to censor but to choose. Many of the pictures will be given in color and many of the books that are a part of the school course in English will be shown in the best dramatization. Parents and teachers can share the enjoyment of the children.

The committee in charge have secured the help of young women to act as ushers and mothers may feel that the children can be safely left at the Playhouse and that they will be under personal observation and care.

The price of admission is so small, only 10 and 15 cents, that the audience should be large. The movement is for community service and not for any financial gain.

The moving picture makes a direct appeal to the understanding. The printed page is a difficult path in comparison. Nothing we have today in actual plot or mechanical process can so speak to the child's mind. For that reason the best pictures are the only kind to have. This idea has been held in mind in the selection of each play to be shown.

DOG KILLED IN FITCHBURG IS REPORTED TO HAVE BITTEN SEVERAL PEOPLE

FITCHBURG, Oct. 7.—Dog Constable John M. O'Neill, after completing an investigation into the actions of a dog reported to have bitten several persons yesterday, said last night that he will ship the animal's head to Boston for an examination.

Mr. O'Neill believes the animal is the same one that terrorized North Leominster a few weeks ago, biting several other dogs.

The animal was first observed yesterday on Summer street, where it attacked Miss Bridget Kane and bit one of her hands. The dog then ran toward South Fitchburg and snapped at many persons in that neighborhood. It is said it was killed by a man with a club.

2 Y.W.C.A. SECRETARIES

RECEPTION TENDERED MISSES HYNDMAN AND BALL AT KITSON HALL

The new secretaries of the Young Women's Christian association of this city, Miss Helen M. Hyndman, general secretary, and Miss Constance L. Ball, extension secretary, were tendered a reception last evening in Kitson hall. There was present a large number of members and friends of the association who met the new secretaries for the first time.

The receiving line was comprised of Misses Hyndman and Ball, Miss Helen M. Hyndman, president of the association; Miss Eva P. Washburn, physical instructor, and Miss Margarette V. Kehoe, business secretary. The dormitory girls were ushers.

Musical numbers were furnished by Madame Trefsky of Boston, and there were violin solos by Miss Dorothy M. Farley, accompanied by Miss Marion Farley. Miss Muriel Leach gave pleasing readings. Refreshments were served under the direction of Miss Ethel M. Everett and Mrs. E. G. Morrison. The hall was prettily decorated with palms and flowers.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of the British-American Social club was held last evening in Post 120 hall on Merrimack street. A letter was read from the president of the Red Cross workers of this city asking for contributions to the Queen Mary's Hospital appliance fund and each member was asked to collect all money possible for this cause. The treasurer read a favorable report relative to the relief fund. Routine business was transacted and discussion of the European war took place.

Lowell Ministers' Union

The election of officers for the ensuing year was the feature of the meeting of the Lowell Ministers' Union held yesterday afternoon. Rev. Herbert E. Benton, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, was chosen president; Rev. James Bancroft, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church, vice president; and Rev. Henry A. Cornell, retired, secretary-treasurer.

At the close of the election a discussion of motion pictures was held. The work of the Middlesex Women's club in this respect was endorsed and the clergyman expressed the opinion that a more strict censorship of pictures in Lowell would prove advantageous.

ANOTHER BLOOD GAME

Lawrence Manufacturing and South End Teams Will Clash Again on Saturday Afternoon

The Lawrence Mfg. and South End teams will meet for the second game in their series for the championship of the city at Spalding park on Saturday afternoon and a great contest is expected. The hosiery boys and their supporters are not in the least disturbed over the loss of the first game and are confident of turning the tables on Saturday.

RHEUMATISM AND ALLIED PAINS—THEY MUST GO!

The congestion of the blood in its flow causes pain. Swains Liniment neutralizes the congestion, starts the blood to flow freely. The body's warmth is renewed; the pain is gone. The man or woman who has rheumatism, neuralgia or other pain and fails to use Swain's Liniment in their home is like a drowning man refusing a rope. Why suffer? Get a bottle of Swain's Liniment. It costs $1.00 a bottle six times as much as 25c size.

OFFICE, LOWELL, MASSACHUSETTS

TOMORROW AFTERNOON

I SHALL SELL, REGARDLESS OF ANY CONDITION OF THE WEATHER, UPON THE PREMISES NUMBERED 17, 18, 19 AND 20 BEANT'S COURT, THE COMPARATIVELY NEW THREE-STORY SIX-TENEMENT BRICK BLOCK

FREE FROM ENCUMBRANCE

TO WHOMSOEVER WILL BID THE MOST AND COMPLY WITH THE TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE REGARDLESS OF WHAT MAY BE HEARD OR SAID TO THE CONTRARY. THE SALE TO TAKE PLACE PROMPTLY AT FOUR O'CLOCK IN THE AFTERNOON.

Each tenement has five rooms opening into an inside hallway, and a good cellar. The lower tenements have independent entrances, and each two upper tenements have an independent stairway entrance. The land has a total area of 4453 square feet, a frontage on Bent's court of 38 feet, and a depth of 63 feet, and a considerable open area at the rear of the building, and this is particularly true of the open area at the front which is quite 15 feet wide. The property is a low rent for this property and has been caused year and about by the confusion resulting from the recent sale.

Bent's court extends from between No. 120 and No. 124 Gorham street through to Charles street. All the properties known as the Bent Property abutting on Bent's court are decided to the center thereof and are entirely undisturbed use of said passageway. The passageway is now laid out in at least 10 feet wide. It is in one of the most valuable Gorham street sections; Gorham street is smooth paved, has trunk and local lines of trolley cars, and is a very modern "White Way" district, and has every modern convenience equal to any downtown section of Melrose. This section of Gorham street has shown more improvements within the last ten years than any other section about Tower's Corner.

This property, known as Lot Four in the recent Bent Estate sale, is being rediverted and sold at this time because the purchaser of the Bent sale in July has failed to comply with the terms and conditions of sale as then and there set forth.

The purchaser must deposit with or satisfactorily secure to the Auctioneers $750 just as soon as the property is struck off, from sixty to seventy per cent of the purchase money may be had upon mortgage if the purchaser so desires; thirty days will be given the purchaser to examine title and make final payments.

AUSTRO-GERMANS INVADE SERBIA

CATTLE DISEASES FATAL TO W. H. PEABODY'S COWS

Dr. Cahill Explains Uncommon Ground Germ Disease That Generally Proves Fatal to Cattle

A ground germ disease that has been more prevalent than usual in different parts of the state, and that is fatal to cattle has found its way to this section. William H. Peabody of Pelham having lost six young cattle that were pastured in East Dracut. Other cattle supposed to have been affected have been examined and are said not to be suffering from the disease.

Dr. Edward A. Cahill, who is connected with the state bureau of animal industry, was seen this morning and said that he had investigated the cattle poisoning in Dracut. There were 11 cattle pastured on what is known as the "Austin land" and six of them were taken sick and died.

Dr. Cahill said that the ground germ eaten by the cattle produced a sort of blood poisoning that proved fatal. "These are the first cases we have had in this section," said Dr. Cahill, "but we have had a number of cases in other parts of the state. The disease is not considered contagious but it is fatal."

We do not know of anything that will kill the germ and it has been more plentiful this year than usual, due, we believe, to the great amount of rain. There is a certain kind of land where the germ seems to prosper, and I presume that the land where Mr. Peabody's cows were pastured is of that kind."

Dr. Cahill stated that the disease is usually caused by cattle feeding around stagnant pools at low water, and the heavy rains this summer have brought about just such a condition in a great many localities as to prosper the germ responsible for the disease. There have been over 150 cases in Massachusetts within the last few months and all of them, it is stated, have proved fatal.

The sixth cow of Mr. Peabody's herd that died did not show symptoms of the disease at the time of Dr. Cahill's examination of the herd, but subsequently developed the disease, and Dr. Cahill said that all of the others are very liable to have it.

JAMES E. O'DONNELL A CANDIDATE

Former Mayor Announces He Will Enter Mayoralty Contest

Contrasts His Administration as Mayor With That of Mayor Murphy

Hon. James E. O'Donnell has today formally announced his candidacy for mayor in the coming municipal primaries, in a statement to the press, which appears below. Mr. O'Donnell asks the public to compare the administration over which he presided with that at present in office.

The former mayor charges the present administration with having done nothing of a constructive nature; with having increased the current expenses of the city and the water rates, and with, generally, having reduced the tax rate has done so by a great increase in valuation and in reality has greatly increased the burden of taxes to be borne by the public.

He maintains that conditions relative to morality and law enforcement are the same in Lowell today as when he was in office. In conclusion, he compares the mayor's one-term promise with his own contention, that he has never broken a pledge or promise and has never made a promise that he did not intend to carry out.

HARD WORK WHETS THE APPETITE

"The sleep of the laboring man is sweet" because with an honest heart he has done a good day's work.

Some people choose a comfortable corner idly to sit, and pronounce the shortcomings of every man they know.

They cannot sleep from one end of the year to the other, and they wonder why they have so little appetite for food.

The healthiest and happiest people in the world are those privileged to work a full business day.

We have many such people in our business family, whose faces tell their own story of health and happiness and who have no trouble with their appetites or sleep by night.

LONG EXPECTED TEUTONIC DRIVE INTO SERBIA BEGUN

Kaiser Plans to Push on to Constantinople—Allied Troops in Serbia to Resist Attack—French Repulse Fierce Attacks of Germans in Champagne—Zaimis Forms New Greek Cabinet—French Successes in the West

An official despatch reached London today stating that the Austro-German armies concentrated against Serbia comprise a total of 400,000 men.

The long expected Teutonic drive into Serbia has begun. Berlin today announced that large forces of Germans and Austrians have crossed the Drina, Save and Danube rivers and firmly established themselves on the Serbian side of those streams.

The Teutonic push is generally conceded to be a push through Serbia, involving the crushing of Serbian military power. This would bring them to Bulgaria, with which country the entente allies have broken and whose assistance, either active or passive, apparently is assured the central powers. Thus the way would be opened to a junction with the Turkish forces and to Constantinople.

Allied Forces in Serbia.

Serbia is to be assisted in resisting the Teutonic effort by French and British troops some of whom already are on Serbian soil.

French Check Germans.

Violent assaults last night by the Germans in efforts to retake the positions the French captured from them north of Tureau in the Champagne district, were repulsed with heavy losses to the Teutonic forces. It is announced in today's official statement from Paris. The most important of these positions is hill No. 199, declared to be a key point in the German second line of defense in this region.

RECORD WHEAT CROP AGAINST STEEL TRUST

GREATEST EVER GROWN IN ANY COUNTRY PRODUCED IN U. S. THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—A billion bushel wheat crop, the greatest ever grown in any country, has been produced in the United States this year. The government's preliminary estimates of the great crop, made today, placed it at 3,002,028,000 bushels, or 111,000,000 bushels larger than the record crop of 1912.

The corn crop now approaching maturity is estimated at 3,025,159,000 bushels, or 95,000,000 bushels less than the record.

EXPLOSION IN POWDER MILL KILLS FOUR MEN

Five Others Injured—Smokeless Powder Was to be Shipped to the Allies Today

EMPORIUM, Pa., Oct. 7.—Four men were instantly killed, another was probably fatally hurt and six were seriously injured in an explosion at the plant of the Aetna Explosive Co. here last night. A large quantity of smokeless powder, prepared for shipment today to the allies, exploded from some yet undetermined cause, blew the two-story structure to atoms and shook the surrounding country for miles around.

Officials informally expressed the opinion that the explosion was accidental.

The plant, which was recently erected at a cost of about $5,000,000, consisted of a large number of buildings, of which the wrecked one was one of the largest. Officials today stated that the property loss was $315,000.

NOTES TO BULGARIA

CIRCUMSTANCES ATTENDING PRESENTATION SET FORTH IN REPORT FROM SOFIA

PARIS, Oct. 7, 9.45 a. m.—The circumstances which attended presentation of the notes of the entente powers to Bulgaria are set forth in an official communication received here today from Sofia. This announcement, filed in Sofia by the correspondent of the Havas News agency on Tuesday and delayed in transmission, was issued by the Bulgarian government before it made reply to the notes. The statement follows:

"On Monday between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, the president of the council received a visit from the representatives of France, Russia and Great Britain. The first two presented notes, not identical, of the character of ultimata, in which, giving a forced interpretation of the armed neutrality proclaimed by Bulgaria and of the object of Bulgaria's mobilization, it was insisted, under threat of the rupture of diplomatic relations, that Bulgaria break off openly within 24 hours its relations with the central powers and send away the German and Austrian officers said to be among the staffs of the different Bulgarian armies."

"The representative of Great Britain presented a verbal note declaring that Great Britain would break with Bulgaria if hostilities should occur in the Balkans as the result of Bulgarian mobilization."

"In consequence of the absence of instructions, the representative of Italy has not yet joined his colleagues in this action."

"The Bulgarian government today will hand to the representatives three notes, not identical, in which it will explain the spirit of armed neutrality of Bulgaria, while pointing out the danger that may arise from fresh encouragement given to Serbia. Rejecting categorically the accusation relative to the pretended presence of German and Austrian officers in the Bulgarian army, it will declare that it cannot drive away officers who do not exist."

"At the same time the government will present a response to the preceding notes of the entente powers, of which their representatives have been advised through the French minister."

"The Bulgarian government purposes to publish a Green book on the conversations and negotiations with the powers of the quadruple entente."

TEXTILE SCHOOL EVENT

ANNUAL SMOKE TALK HELD LAST NIGHT—CONGRESSMAN ROGERS A SPEAKER

The annual smoke talk and entertainment of the Lowell Textile school was held in the school hall last night with a large number of the faculty, undergraduates and "freshies" in attendance. There was a large supply of pipes and tobacco and instructors and students mingled in a very friendly and informal manner. The spirit of good fellowship was the prevailing keynote and all had a good time.

Royal P. White, agent of the Stirling mills introduced Congressman John Jacob Rogers as the first speaker. Mr. Rogers impressed upon the students the necessity of good training in commercial law which he said would be a very essential asset in their future endeavors. He also told them that the business men of the day should take more interest in politics than they have in past years.

A. G. Cumcock, president of the institution was the next speaker and he was enthusiastically received. Mr. Cumcock delivered a very instructive address on mill life and what the school is doing to prepare young men to become efficient manufacturers. Principal James gave a short talk on the school and athletic events. Refreshments were served and a musical program was carried out by the students with Prof. Edward Porter at the piano.

WARREN CLUB DANCE

"She'll want to go. Ask her! If you don't, you're taking a big chance of losing her for the dancing party to be conducted by the Warren club at Associate hall tomorrow night is the talk of the town, and nearly all the "live ones" have dated up their young lady friends for the event. Are you going to remain in the funeral procession? If not, make ready and plan to be in attendance at an early hour at Associate hall tomorrow night. The event promises to be of rare excellence and a number of new features have been arranged. The members of this popular organization have long been noted for their ability to "show something the other fellow has never seen," and the event tomorrow night will follow along this established line. Remember "Eight hours and Oct. 8th."

TWO SMALL FIRES

Fire on the roof of a stable belonging to Susan Hennessy and situated in the rear of 185 Salem street caused an alarm from box 123 shortly before noon today. The fire is believed to have started from a spark from the chimney of an adjoining building. Only a few shingles were damaged. The building is used by Pierre Drapeau.

Fred C. Church carried the insurance on the building. Box 118 at 7:55 o'clock this morning was for a fire in a trunk in a house at 8 Joliette avenue. The trunk was filled with clothing and it is believed that a spark from a pipe started the fire. The house is occupied by Mrs. Goodreau.

RETAIL JEWELERS DINED

TALKED BUSINESS MATTERS AT BANQUET—NEW OFFICERS CHOSEN—CHEAP AUCTIONS OPPOSED

At the annual fall meeting of the Lowell Retail Jewelers association, held in the Harrisonia hotel last evening, resolutions were again passed favoring the wearing of wrist watches by both men and women and other business of considerable importance was transacted. The meeting, which was preceded by a banquet in one of the lower halls, was presided over by President Frank Ricard.

Seventeen prominent jewelers, every one of them members of the association in good standing, assembled at the above named hotel promptly at 7 o'clock, the scheduled time, to take part in the program which was carefully arranged for the occasion.

After a short wait, occasioned by a slight delay in adjusting the dining hall and attending to other important matters, the jewelers formed in line and marched to the banquet hall where a very appetizing menu awaited them. At the conclusion of the repast, informal talks on trade matters were made by J. G. Marshall, Leo Ricard and others.

The business session was called to order at about 8:30 o'clock by President Ricard, and the first move was the election of officers for the ensuing term.

The following were elected: Frank Ricard, president; C. A. Senter, vice president; M. F. Wood, treasurer; J. E. Lyle, secretary; David Harlow, Abraham Gustaf and J. Perreault, board of directors.

Reports were then read from the grievance and ordinance committees and the treasurer's report showed the association to be in excellent financial condition.

A letter was received from Mayor Murphy, expressing regret at inability to attend. A committee of three was appointed to draw up an ordinance to be presented to the city solicitor for the purpose of restraining cheap auction sales after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. This jewelers feel that by taking this move they are protecting not only themselves but the jewelry buying people who are easily lured into purchasing the worthless articles usually offered at these sales. A state law is now in effect which makes cheap auction sales almost prohibitive on account of the large fee charged to conduct such a business in any city or town in the state, but the jewelers are going to make an effort to stop the practice altogether in this city.

Henry Levalle spoke on the matter.

STOLEN AUTO RECOVERED

TWO BOYS ARRESTED HERE EARLY THIS MORNING WHILE DRIVING STOLEN AUTO

Randal F. Elder and Austin P. Graham, 18-year-old students who reside in Everett, were taken to Boston today by Hub inspectors charged with stealing a 1914 automobile from Charles street, that city. The boys were arrested on Appleton street at 1:30 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Frank Carey and Daniel Lynch. While Patrolman Carey was walking up Appleton street, near South, the machine stopped near him and one of the boys, in adjusting the dial, was seen to be tampering with the machine.

The boys were taken to the police station, where they admitted stealing the automobile when questioned by Capt. Atkinson.

MRS. BARNES RECOVERING

The many friends of Mrs. C. Oliver Barnes of this city will be pleased to hear that she is recovering after undergoing a surgical operation. Mrs. Barnes is at present at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward S. Colton, Jr., formerly of this city, now of New Highlands. Her husband, Mr. C. Oliver Barnes of the J. C. Ayer Co., who was recently given an extended vacation and purse of money by the company, has been obliged to forego of uniform prices for repairing, and it was voted to take the matter up again at the next monthly meeting.

A vote of thanks was tendered C. L. Blake, the well known engraver, for his kindness in manufacturing a die for the seal of the association which is used on letters and cards.

The last matter taken up, that of making the clocks members of the association, was tabled, but it will come up again at the next regular meeting. It was announced following the meeting that the jewelry stores will be closed during the entire month on Thursday afternoon.

The members of the association present at the banquet and meeting were: Frank Ricard, C. A. Senter, M. F. Wood, J. E. Lyle, J. Perreault, A. Gustaf, W. Peitler, David Harlow, H. Levalle, G. Antonis, W. Hobart, J. T. Montminy, Joseph Landry, J. G. Marshall, Alexander Dubois, C. L. Blake and Leo Ricard.

The funeral of John Golden, who was killed on the railroad tracks on September 30, took place yesterday morning at the First Congregational church of Billerica Centre. The bearers were Messrs. Chester Green, Guy Green, Lewis Fisk and Clifford Fisk. Burial was in the family lot in the Fox Hill cemetery, Billerica Centre, where Rev. Mr. Dale read the committal prayers. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers Young & Blake.

SHAW—The funeral of Chas. Shaw was held from the home of his mother, Mrs. Andrew S. Shaw, at 5 South street, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. W. E. Woodbury, pastor of the Worthen Street Baptist church. Burial was in the family lot in Westlawn cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker George W. Healey.

SIMPSON—The funeral of Robert Simpson was held yesterday afternoon at his home, 451 Westford street. Rev. Alfred C. Skinner, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church, conducted the services. Delegation was present from the Knights of the Holy Rite, including Frank H. Haines, Frank L. Weaver, Frank Hanchett and George E. Putnam. The bearers were Messrs. A. L. Sturtevant, Frank Sturtevant, George W. Howes, A. E. Rountree, Charles T. Rowland and William Rock. Burial was in the family lot in the Lowell cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Skinner read the committal service. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Chas. T. Rowland, under the direction of Undertakers Simmons & Brown.

KINCH—The funeral of the late Michael J. Kinch took place this morning at 8:30 o'clock from his home, Middlesex street, at 8 o'clock. The services were largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including a number from out of town, also the following delegation from Highland Council, Royal Arcanum of which deceased was an esteemed member: Arthur H. Dana, George Cheney, John H. Sullivan and Frank C. Lemire. The cortege proceeded to St. John's church, where a requiem mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Edmund Schofield. There were many beautiful floral tributes, including a pillow from the brothers of deceased and a pillow from the wife, also pieces from Highland Council R. A. M. and Mrs. James Barker, Mr. and Mrs. William Barker, Mr. and Mrs. John Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Vinal, Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Snow, Arthur M. Bertrand, Felix P. Langevin, Mrs. James Barker, Miss Emma Towle, Miss Florence Merriam, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. E. McDevitt, Mrs. William Thompson, Mrs. Loreta McDevitt and Willie Taylor. E. Carroll and the primary and junior apprentices of the Second Congregational Sunday school. The ushers at the house and church were William H. Quick and W. S. Ward. The bearers were James J. Dunnigan, David E. Smith, Joseph Stone, Fred L. Vinal, Fred L. Snow and Joseph E. Ryan. The burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery in charge of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell & Sons.

DONOHUE—The funeral of Miss Mary Katherine Donohue took place this morning from her home, 23 South street at 8:30 o'clock and was largely attended. The cortege proceeded to St. Peter's church, where at 9 o'clock a mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan. The bearers were James Lennon, John O'Donnell, Cornelius Lynch, Charles Juley, John C. Cahill and Thomas Cahill. Among the many floral offerings were: Large

At Shubert of New Bedford is one boxer around these parts that does not have to worry over the high cost of living, for he is in great demand at the boxing clubs throughout New England and when it is announced that he will fight, you can rest assured that he will be there to do his share and that is the reason the promoters like to use Shubert, besides he draws well at all times, packing the house practically every time he fights.

The New Bedford Political and Social club has booked for Columbus day, Shubert's opponent will be Mickey Brown of Malden with whom he fought a ten round draw a few years ago at Boston. Shubert and Brown will travel over 15 rounds next Tuesday if the bout does not terminate before that time.

On Oct. 15, Shubert will oppose a boxer hailing from New York under the name of Willie Brown, who is looked upon to be the rugged fighting City boy to consider the trouble. The Twentieth century club of Pittsfield has secured the match and the fans from the heart of the Berkshires will want to view this little fighter from New Bedford again after they have seen him perform once.

Jim Grille, the Lawrence promoter, wants to use Shubert as soon as possible at the Unity club. At is a great favorite at the down-river club and it does not make any difference who he fights, he makes the fight and the tear-in style of Shubert is very popular at Lawrence. "Kid" Wolfe, with whom he fought three times will probably be the first one to oppose him at Lawrence. Wolfe lost to the New Bedford boy on all three occasions, twice in Lawrence and the other time in Thornton, R. I.

Joe Chick and Wild Bill Flemming will fight at Lawrence Columbus day. Quite a delegation from Lowell intend to take in this star attraction on the holiday. Chick has shown in Lowell twice and each time he showed good fighting ability. While Flemming has not appeared in Lowell, his prowess has been followed by the fistic fans and they know he is one great man at 145 pounds.

Gilbert "Lucky" Gallant will oppose Frankie Callahan again in a Boston ring. The boys will clash on next Tuesday evening and a large crowd of world's series rooters will attend. Callahan defeated Gallant the last time they met, knocking the Champion down in the first minute of fighting. A good preliminary show will appear before the feature event.

Babe Christo will get a chance to fight in Lawrence at one of the first shows staged there.

He has promised him several bouts if he makes a good initial bow, which Christo will, we think.

WHITE SOX 9, CUBS 5

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The American league club drew first blood over their National league rivals for the championship of Chicago yesterday, by winning the first game, 9 to 5. Vaughn pitched a great game for six innings, striking out eight of his opponents, but he weakened in the seventh, in that inning he was touched for five hits, one of which was a triple by Eddie Collins and netted the Americans four runs and the game.

THE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES

Each Game of the Yearly Baseball Classic To Be Electrically Reproduced In This City

Lowell in the past three years has enjoyed during the world's championship baseball series a reproduction on an automatic score board of each of the games as they were played. This year, encouraged by the increased patronage of the baseball fans during the last series, the management of this popular sporting event decided to give to the baseball loving public a big improvement in this line. During the summer season they engaged the services of the G. W. Conant & Co. and C. H. May company to construct for use during the coming series an automatic electrical baseball scoreboard after plans which were carefully prepared to embrace all the good points of the boards used throughout the country and to eliminate any confusing details which might mar the enjoyment of the audience in following the progress of the game.

This board has been completed during the past week and a special try-out has proven it even better than the expectations of the builders. It stands 12 feet high and 11 feet across and has on each side an additional board giving a complete lineup and box scores of the game as it progresses. It will show in detail every movement of the ball and the base runner. For instance—If a Red Sox runner is on third base with Tris Speaker at the bat and the Sox need one run to tie the score it will show the progress of the ball from the pitcher to the plate and when Speaker hits it you will see the movement of the ball to a point far in the outfield, the man on third at the same time moving towards home. Then some one next to you will shout: "Watch that throw home!" and you will see the ball moving swiftly from the field back towards home plate all the time gaining on the runner.

By that time you will be on your feet yelling: "Slide, slide!" and when the Red Sox runner makes the bag before the ball, your imagination, coupled with the vivid reproduction of the movements of the ball and the players before you, will make you forget entirely that you are not actually in the grandstand yourself.

The board will be shown this year at the Crescent skating rink on Hurd street, and when you think of the cold October winds that are apt to be blowing through the grandstand at the grounds you may well be thankful that you have the opportunity to witness the game right in Lowell, inside where it is warm, and where the aforesaid wind will not blow out your matches when you light up the pipe or light your cigar.

To give the fans this excellent and prompt service during the World's Series games the Western Union Telegraph will install a great many telegraphic instruments at the grounds and out of the instruments is wired directly into each hall where a score board is operated. When Ernie Shore or some other Red Sox twirler winds up and pitches the last ball of the game that ball is shown on the score board before the catcher at the grounds returns it to the pitcher's box.

As before mentioned the "Acme" electrical scoreboard will be seen at the Crescent Garden rink, Hurd street, daily at 2 p. m. Doors open at 1.30. Special arrangements have been made to accommodate the lady fans and a section of reserved seats has been set aside for the exclusive disposal. The admission is within reach of all, 25c, with a few good reserved seats at 10c, extra. Reserved seats are on sale at the Bowldway, Hurd street, Telephone 815, and at the Arlington hotel, Tel. 1870. Come and root for the Red Sox.

CATCHING DEPARTMENT

COMPARISON OF CATCHERS WHO WILL APPEAR IN THE WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Offensively and defensively there appears to be little advantage for either the Boston Americans or the Philadelphia Nationals, in the catching departments, in the coming world's series. Both the Red Sox and the Phillies have a trio of best stops who are far above the ordinary in ability in this particular feature of the game. The American league champions in Manager Carrigan, Cady and Thomas have three experienced catchers who are thoroughly at home behind the plate and familiar with every detail of the game. Killifer, the veteran of the Phillies' catching force, but Burns has shown during the past season that he is not far behind his chief in all-round ability, while Adams, the third string catcher, is a youngster who, in his few try-outs, has given promise of measuring up to the standards set by his two superiors in the near future.

While experience counts for much in the work behind the plate, it is not always the veterans who shine in the big baseball series. If this were the case, the Americans would have a winning edge of reserve strength since Carrigan and Cady both figured prominently in the famous eight-game struggle between the Giants and the Red Sox in 1912, whereas none of the Phillies' catchers has figured in the fight for the premier pennant of the diamond game. Adams, however, there is nothing to indicate that much difference of ability exists in the actual work of the players under consideration. Killifer has caught a majority of the games played by the Phillies this year, with Burns acting in an emergency and Cady as catcher. The former has a fielding average of .973 and batted .247, while Burns has batted one point above Killifer's average and fielded four points below. Adams' record falls to show participation in the play for the season.

For Boston, Cady and Thomas have done the major part of the basketkeeping, although Carrigan has handled the delivery of the left handers from time to time. Cady is the best of the trio, if judgment can be based on the season's unofficial averages. In setting over 70 games he has batted .277 and fielded .976. Thomas, in about an equal number of games, has fielded .971 and batted .239. Carrigan has received credit for playing in a little more than half the number of games that Cady and Thomas have, but his batting averages are: Fielding, .976; batting, .207.

The individual averages and the averages of the rival catching departments, considered as units, are as follows:

BOSTON					b.a. f.a.
Carrigan	207	.277	.976		Carrigan	207	.277	.976

WORLD'S SERIES TICKETS

DISTRIBUTION BEGINS AT RED SOX OFFICE—ROYAL ROOTERS OFF FOR PHILADELPHIA

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Thousands of persons learned today that they had been successful in their applications for grandstand or pavilion reservations for the world's series baseball games here Monday. After several days and nights of work with only snatches of sleep, President Joseph J. Lannin of the Boston Americans and an augmented office staff put the last of the notices of reservations in the postoffice today. There were about 10,000 covering 25,000 seats for each of three games.

Under the system which has been in effect at world's series games here in recent years, applicants will present their notifications and money at the box offices and receive the tickets. All reservations not called for by October 12 in the evening will be disposed of at public sale, to start at 9 o'clock on the morning of the game.

BOSTON ROOTERS OFF

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Tessie, Johnnie Keenan and the rest of the Boston Royal Rooters left the South station this p. m. at 12.30 for the first leg of their journey to Philadelphia in quest of the world's championship knifon. Somewhat less than six hours later Broadway will hear the old song, for at 6:45 the rooters will have arrived in the Grand Central depot, and immediately thereafter will be on their way to the Elks club in 314 street.

The big march will be on. The intrepid band of shouters and singers, who may well believe that they have brought victory to Boston on every occasion in which a big pennant has been at stake, will storm the hostile City of Shubert. No more honest hand has ever left Boston. Not one in the big "Boston 4" can see anything like defeat for the Red Sox. Some there are who think possibly Alexander may cop the opener, but, in the long run, they look for a Boston win.

"Our crowd," says Chief Keenan, "will be right on hand, shouting for the Red Sox from the drop of the hat. You can take it from me, every one of the crowd feels sure the Red Sox will win, and thus keep Boston's reputation for winning up to the high standard set in the past. Alexander is a great pitcher, but he is not a great fielder. I have a wonderful pitching staff in Shore, Foster, Leonard, Bush, Collins and the others. Any one of these men is lots better than the best Moran can offer, aside from Alexander."

Keenan's sentiments are those of a majority of the party. Not one in the crowd thinks that the Red Sox will lose in the end. All agree that it will be a tough series and one in which the boasts of the time will figure to a great extent. Bostonians, however, can rest assured that the Royal Rooters will be at Philadelphia, regardless of all opposition, so long as the city is in the game.

The Royal Rooters, with their own band under Jimmy Connelley's able direction, gathered at the South station soon after noon and for perhaps three-quarters of an hour before train time the band entertained the big gathering which was there to see them off with "Tessie" and the other Boston war songs. The train was boarded at 12.25.

On Friday morning the party will re-assemble at the Elks club at 8 o'clock and march to the Pennsylvania station, where the train will be boarded, for Philadelphia. They will arrive at the Broad street station before 11 o'clock and march to headquarters, after which they will go to the National League park for the game. Following the game they will parade back to town.

Ernie Shore of the Red Sox pitching the first inning of the first game of the double-header against New York on Saturday, struck out High, Beck, Spang and Boone on 14 pitched balls. He pitched only that inning.

SIGN NEW STAR PLAYER

BUNTING SOCCER TEAM SIGNS WALLACE, FORMERLY OF THE SCOTLAND TEAM

The Scots of Clan MacPherson will come to town on Saturday to play the strong Bunting team and will bring along their new star centre half whom they signed last week. This new man should strengthen the defence of the Scottish boys. But will he be able to hold up the Bunting forwards, who are a fast lot, and who know how to get rid of the ball to the best advantage? Greenhalgh played a star game at centre forward against Lawrence, and the chances are that he will be able to outwit the Clan's defence and lead after his wing men. If, on the other hand, the Clan's star puts Greenhalgh off his game, this might disorganize the Buntings' forward line. But the management has great faith in its team and hopes to capture both points from the Scots.

The Buntings hope to have the assistance of J. Wallace, a wide right, who played for the Scotland team of 1913-14, and was a star player for the Manchester team last season. The Buntings have secured the services of a star player in Wallace. The committee is now after another player and hopes to have him in the lineup when Bunting meets Andover in the first round of the state cup at Bunting park. There should be a record crowd to see this game. Andover won the league championship last year and is going strong this season, having played and won four games.

The Bunting management is doing its best to give the fans the best soccer football to be seen on this side of the water and in return they ask the support of all members of the Bunting club and the soccer fans who are not members. For all men see the games. The Buntings have the best clubhouse and grounds in New England, with seating capacity for 800, with a clear view of the game from any point.

The Buntings are playing good ball and intend to bring the pennant to Lowell this year. For Saturday's game the Buntings will present the following team: J. Smith, J. Marriott, A. Smith, H. Lowe, W. Kelly (capt.), W. Gilford, J. Wallace, J. Taylor, J. Greenhalgh, W. Herzig and G. Clegg. Referee, J. G. Wilkinson. Lawrence, Lesman, R. G. Paterson (manager). The kickoff will take place at 3.15 o'clock.

CLOSING GAMES TODAY

BOTH LEAGUES FINISH SEASON—RED SOX WILL GO TO PHILADELPHIA AFTER NEW YORK GAME

The season of both big leagues closes today with each of the Boston teams playing, the Red Sox in New York and the Braves at home.

Tonight the Red Sox will go over to Philadelphia and get a good night's rest preparatory to their opening game in Philadelphia tomorrow. Crowds left Boston today for New York, intending to remain overnight in the Metropolis and leave for Philadelphia in the morning. Many of them had not previously arranged for tickets that is for Alexander to beat the Red Sox in three games. If he falls the Boston club will win.

A number of well known Lowell men will attend the first two games, making their abiding place at Atlantic City. Judging from the number of reservations made, Lowell will be well represented at the series. Many Lowell men have applied for more tickets than they personally need, feeling confident that they can dispose of them, and hence everybody in Lowell who wants a ticket should have no great difficulty in securing one, provided, however, that those who have applied got all the tickets they have applied for.

FOOTBALL

The Athletics have organized for the purpose of playing Glavin's Pets. We have been after Manager Glavin for a week. The Athletics have D. O'Connor, J. J. O'Brien, C. Riley, G. PICKING THE WINNER

STALLINGS AND HUGGINS FAVOR RED SOX—WHAT OTHER MANAGERS SAY

Managers in the American and National leagues in their opinions of the world's series favor the club in their organization. There are a few exceptions. George Stallings and Charley Herzog are credited with the statement that the Red Sox will win, while John McGraw believes that if Alexander can hold up the Phillies will win. Bill Donovan of the Yankees refuses to commit himself, but thinks the series will be mighty interesting. Here are the opinions:

ROGER BRESNAHAN, Chicago Cubs: "Philadelphia will take the series. I look for Alexander to do what Matthewson did in 1905—win three games. Rixey, Denaree or Chalmers will take the fourth."

JOHN MCGRAW, New York Giants: "The Phillies have only one ace, and that is for Alexander to beat the Red Sox in three games. If he falls the Boston club will win."

MILLER HUGGINS, St. Louis Cardinals: "On form the Red Sox should win, but you can never tell about the Phillies. They have a tendency to break up games when least expected. If Alexander and Mayer are right, I look for Philadelphia to put up a stiff fight."

GEORGE STALLINGS, Boston Braves: "Boston will beat the Phillies. I do not think Alexander can shoulder the burden and win three games in so short a time. Besides, the Phillies do not hit consistently enough to beat Carrigan's twirlers."

WILBERT ROBINSON, Brooklyn Dodgers: "It will be a tough series. The Phillies are gamier than they appear to be. They gained the lead in the National league race and held it to their aggressiveness. Moran has some sluggers along with several good pitchers. Alexander, of course, being the star."

CHARLES HERZOG, Cincinnati Reds: "I have not seen the Red Sox this season, but if they are anything like they were in 1912 they should win. I do not think the Phillies the best club in our league. Alexander won the flag for Moran and he will have to win the world's series for him."

FRED CLARKE, Pittsburgh Pirates: "I have seen one pitcher win a world's series and do not think this year will be an exception. Alexander is the greatest twirler of the day and I believe he will win the flag for the Phillies."

AMERICAN LEAGUE

CONNIE MACK, Philadelphia Athletics: "Boston is a great club and should win on paper, but one cannot always figure a short series that way. Pitching is a great factor in a world's series."

CLARENCE ROWLAND, White Sox: "The Boston club should win the series decisively. I want to see Shore pitch against Alexander in the first game. I predict he will defeat the great pitcher of the Phillies. Defensively and offensively the Red Sox is the better club. It has the pitching, fielding and batting to win."

HUGH JENNINGS, Detroit Tigers: "Boston defeated us in one of the hottest battles ever waged in the American league. The schedule favored the Red Sox, but there is no denying they are a great ball club. Great pitchers often win post-season series and there is no denying Alexander is one of the best the game has produced. He will stack up against a stronger club than he has seen this year and will win his troubles. Boston has the shade."

CLARKE GRIFFITH, Washington: "It ought to be a tough series. If Alexander could stand the gauntlet, as he says he can, and pitch all the games, the Phillies might breeze through. There is no denying Boston has a great club, but it has been lucky against us this season. It bends out of several close games by getting the break."

BILL DONOVAN, New York Yankees: "Pitching is a great factor in a big series, and a club like the Philadelphia team, with a pitcher like Alexander, must be considered a good chance. Boston has a great club in the Red Sox. It should be an interesting series."

LEE FOHL, Cleveland: "I expect to see Boston win, as the Red Sox hurlers will be backed by great fielding

DRAFT FOR THE MILITIA

CAPT. HARRY G. CHASE, M. V. M.
SUBMITS PLAN TO THE SPECIAL
MILITARY COMMISSION

BOSTON, Oct. 7.—Conscription of recruits for military training by a system similar to the present jury system was advocated by Capt. Harry G. Chase, M. V. M., at the hearing before the special military commission at the state house yesterday. Capt. Chase urged the federation of the militia and declared that the prevailing military training in the public schools is worse than useless because it brings the militia no enlistments. He scored the elective system for officers at present in force in the militia.

He pleaded for a uniform system of instruction for the militia throughout the country, a uniform system of es-ablishing the ratings of officers, closer contact between the regular army and the militia and the extending of the period of field training from eight to at least 14 days. He expressed the opinion that militia should be maintained at full war strength and pointed out that a full division of 21,000 troops had never been seen on parade in Massachusetts.

Dr. Hugh Cabot declared that a military training constituted equipment in the business of living. He said that men should be taught to take care of themselves in the open under all sorts of conditions as it not only trained them to be soldiers but also to be men.

Maj. Henry L. Higginson, Samuel J. Pilder and J. W. Farley also spoke before the commission. Maj. Higginson supported the suggestion of putting the militia under federal control. He laid particular stress upon the need of teaching the men obedience and of undivided authority. He recited several instances of insubordination by members of the militia during the Civil War and stated that housekeeping in camp should be one of the principal features of the education of the recruit.

Mr. Elder, who appeared before the commission as a trustee of the world peace foundation, outlined the stand of the peace advocates in relation to the work of the commission. He said he believed in preparedness and that the nation at all times should be ready to compel peace.

Mr. Farley, who was one of the men who helped raise the first Massachusetts contingent which went to Plattsburg, N. Y., said that Massachusetts needs four or five times the number of troops now organized and that a military training was desirable. He said that military service should be placed on the same plane as taxation. He also advocated a chain of summer camps similar to the one at Plattsburg.

WANT PAWTUCKETVILLE CHURCH

A meeting of the French-American residents of Pawtucketville will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the rooms of the Pawtucketville Social club in Moody street with a view of renewing activities on the project undertaken some two years ago for the establishment of a French Catholic church in the district. The matter was brought to the attention of the diocesan authorities some two years ago, a committee having been appointed to wait upon Cardinal O'Connell and at that time the cardinal took the matter under advisement.

just past 40. She was born in Wytheville, Va., where she lived with her father, W. H. Bolling, a prominent lawyer, until he married Norman Galt in 1896. Mr. Galt died in 1907 and Mrs. Galt has lived in Washington with her mother since that time. She has no children.

Last autumn Miss Margaret Wilson and her cousin, Miss Bones, met Mrs. Galt in Washington. She charmed them so that she was invited to the White House. She soon became one of the small circle of persons who have been received informally by the members of the president's household.

At Baseball Games

Miss Wilson and Mrs. Galt were together a great deal during the fall. She lunched and dined frequently at the White House. During the late autumn she motored occasionally with the president and Miss Wilson.

When winter turned to spring, Mrs. Galt became an almost daily visitor at the White House. Frequently she went with the president's party to the golf course and when the ball season opened she sat beside the president in the box.

When the president went to Cornish last summer, Miss Wilson invited Mrs. Galt to visit the summer White House and she spent a month there.

Rumors Two Months Ago

Rumors were afloat more than two months ago that a White House engagement might be expected within the near future, but it was impossible to induce any White House attendant to verify the report. Little by little stories began to creep out of the attention which Mrs. Galt received from the president. Little stories were whispered about in the inner circles that the president was the most glib of lovers.

About this time an attempt was made to get a photograph of Mrs. Galt, but she had issued strict orders to every photographer that her picture must not be allowed to leave their stores until they had her personal instructions.

Not since the Sayre baby—the president's first grandchild—was born at the White House last year has the great white structure been the scene of so much joy. Everyone connected with the house and the offices beamed with smiles last night when Secretary

Tumulty at 8 o'clock made the formal announcement.

White House Pleased

Since her advent at the White House Mrs. Galt has been the most popular visitor for whom the tail black porters at the palace have been accustomed to open the doors without demanding a card. In the offices, in police headquarters, in the pantry and in the kitchen every man and woman sang her praises.

The announcement that she would soon become the first lady of the land was received by all of them with great joy.

It was just 14 months yesterday, Aug. 6, at 5 p. m., that Mrs. Wilson died. Before her untimely death the White House was pointed out as one of the happiest homes in the country.

With Mrs. Wilson's death all this happiness was wiped out. Already Miss Jessie Wilson had married Francis Bowers Sayre and moved away to Washington, Mass. Then came the wedding of Miss Eleanor to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo. Death and marriage reduced the president's family to two—Miss Margaret and himself.

Trying Period For President

Since that time the White House has been lonesome. The president has been in mourning until two months ago. While his domestic sorrows pressed heavily upon him the greatest cares that have befallen a chief executive since Abraham Lincoln lived in the White House crowded around him.

From time to time persons in close touch with the president feared that the combination of affairs would bear too heavily upon him and that he would become a nervous wreck.

While he was surrounded by the troubles of the nation and his own personal sorrows, Mrs. Galt appeared as a member of the White House circle. It is an open secret that Miss Wilson and Miss Bones soon became convinced that the president was fascinated by Mrs. Galt and they encouraged the association. From the beginning of the acquaintance the president and Mrs. Galt seemed to be perfectly congenial.

When Mrs. Galt appeared at the White House to take the afternoon motor ride the heavy responsibilities of the European situation appeared to fall from the president's shoulders. He showed his inner characteristics and exhibited the rare sense of humor that the public has not had an opportunity of seeing. Gradually the heavy sorrow that had oppressed him for a year faded and he appeared to be supremely happy with Mrs. Galt.

Last night many little instances were told of how the president would allow no one to wait upon Mrs. Galt when she was present. If she desired a coat the president brought it and so with all the little attentions that are illustrative of the lover.

Inherited Jewelry Store

During the years since she became a widow Mrs. Galt has lived in an attractive home on 28th street, just around the corner from Dupont Circle, Washington's social hub. She was not known much in Washington's "smart set," which is composed principally of millionaires and their families who have moved here within the generation.

She associated principally with the circle known as the "Cave Dwellers." These are the older families of Washington, who move pretty much in their own circle and of whom little is seen in the headlines.

Mrs. Galt inherited from her husband one of the oldest jewelry stores in America. It is in Washington what Tiffany's is to New York. The store was founded more than 100 years ago by one of her former husband's forefathers.

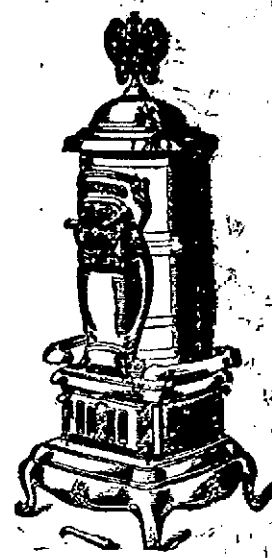

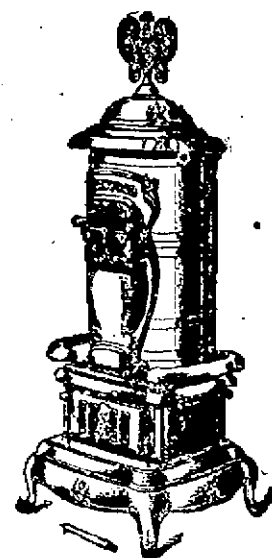

Thomas Jefferson dealt with Galt's when he was president and he stocked the White House silver closets from the Galt shelves.

Expected to Be Social Center

Last night's announcement was the most welcome piece of news that Washington society has had in many months. It was interpreted to mean that the White House again would become a social center. During the last year the White House has been in deep mourning and there have been no social functions.

The advent of Mrs. Galt as the first lady of the land is expected to change all of this. It is thought that she will take up the social duties which were laid down more than a year ago and that there will be a general round of gaiety.

Mrs. Galt was considered beautiful

IN ECONOMY, DURABILITY AND BEAUTY

A genuine indirect full return flue stove. The smoke and heat pass downward through the body and the ashpit sides to a flue beneath the ashpan. Then it passes to the rear of the ashpit and through the sheet-iron backpipe to the chimney. Before buying any parlor stove take out the ashpan and see if there is a smokeflue beneath it. If not, it isn't a full indirect draft stove, and it must and it will cost more coal to run it and it won't keep fire over night as well. You can keep a fire going night and day in a CRAWFORD from now till next spring without trouble and at half the expense in coal as some stoves. THE MUNICIPAL CAMPAIGN

The municipal campaign promises to be pretty lively should Mayor Murphy be renominated with Rodrigue Mignault or somebody else as his opponent.

There is much dissatisfaction in reference to the trick tax rate by which the actual rate was reduced by $1.10 from $21.90, the highest in the history of the city, although the tax bills this year are higher than last year. The small taxpayers especially resent this deceptive method of juggling the tax rate. Property that was previously taxed at what seemed to be a fair rate is valued higher this year. One woman from the Highlands who painted her house during the past year called at city hall to inquire why the assessed value of her property should be increased $200 just because she had given her domicile a coat of paint at an expense of about $100.

Others whose property is depreciating with the passing years inquire why the assessors placed a higher value upon it than during the previous year. They say they do not understand it and many feel that the assessors made a mistake in raising the valuation of property that was not even painted during the past year. There will undoubtedly be petitions for abatement as a result; but the taxpayers may as well realize now as later on that the political exigencies of the administration demanded a lower tax rate without reducing the revenue. Hence the valuation of property was pushed up so that the tax rate might be pushed down. That is a political trick that has been resorted to by some discredited administrations in the past but never quite so barefacedly as in the present instance.

The taxpayers ask what are we getting for the high taxes of these two years; and the only answer that can be given is—an "economic administration" whose principal achievement is to increase the taxes.

Last year we expected that an isolation hospital would have been started but all the administration did was to undo what its predecessor had done, and now, that the Pillsbury site has been thrown overboard a new site has been selected in Pawtucketville. Thus the matter is where it was two years ago.

On the high school matter the municipal council went to the legislature early in the year and secured permission to borrow $700,000 outside the debt limit for a high school but the first step toward securing a site has not yet been completed. The property owners on Kirk street are being held in suspense while their property is understood to be seized for high school purposes. That, in addition to some talk about a supervising architect, indicates the extent of the work done upon the high school.

Of the Pawtucket bridge mudslide it is needless to say anything. The public are fully conversant with the unbusiness-like bungling on that proposition and its final abandonment so that a new administration taking charge will have to begin all over again; but we may have a long reckoning to settle up with Mr. Denman, who was engaged as supervising architect for the new bridge that the city finally decided not to build.

Similarly a number of street extensions are brought forward and held in the air with the other projects mentioned and the whole formidable list is to be put before the voters as an outline of what is to be done next year; but if an administration spends two years in trying how to begin one or two of these undertakings, how long it may be asked, would it take the same body to complete one or two of them?

What the city wants is not a do-nothing administration but a body of men capable of handling these municipal problems in a business-like manner.

Then again Mayor Murphy's distinct pledge not to run again will doubtless be an issue in the campaign.

As a candidate for mayor Dr. Mignault will undoubtedly deal with the mayor's promises and pledges, political and otherwise. He will probably want to know what became of His Honor's promises of economy if elected to the mayoralty. All these matters are fit subjects for discussion in the coming municipal campaign and on one and all the citizens will want full and complete information.

THE PROGRESSIVES

The progressive state convention was not the kind of a gathering usually held by a party about to give up the ghost. In point of fact the party has pulled itself together in Massachusetts and is apparently determined to convince Charles Sumner Bird and Hon. Joseph Walker that it is neither dead nor dying. Both gentlemen were criticized for sacrificing principle to their desire for reward from republican leaders. They were very plainly set down as disappointed office seekers but the delegates showed a determination to get along without these dissidents and proceeded to adopt a platform which is undoubtedly quite progressive.

The effort of Nelson B. Clark, progressive candidate for governor, to inject the sectarian issue into the campaign was met with disapproval and that question was wisely excluded.

The platform has reforms enough to keep congress and the state of Massachusetts going for the next generation. National prohibition and old age pensions, state ownership of railroads, equal suffrage, the initiative and referendum, a non-partisan tariff commission, a federal incorporation law, regulation of the trusts so as to insure competition where possible by effective control—these are a few of the leading reforms advocated by the progressive party.

On such a platform there can be no doubt that the party candidates should be able to make a rattling campaign. It is undoubtedly the aim of the party in this state to keep its forces intact in order to be able to take an active part in the national campaign next year. On this ground those who have remained loyal to the progressive party have good reason to complain of the withdrawal of Bird and Walker who on various pretexts have gone back to the republican party.

It appears that the republican hope that the progressive party would soon be dead and buried is not to be realized; and the disloyalty of Bird and Walker will do more than they supposed to cement the shattered fragments of the party and bring it new strength in the coming election. The party leaders paid a nice compliment to Governor Walsh in stating that he is ahead of his party. That is a fact inasmuch as no party comes up to the ideals of its accepted leader. Governor Walsh is blazing the way for the democracy of Massachusetts and he is willing to join hands with the members of any other party who will assist him in the work. If he is ahead of the democratic party in his ideas of reform and of just government, then much more so must he be ahead of the republican party and even of the progressive party whose high sounding platform is worthy of greater support than it is likely to get.

The progressive party is certainly fighting for a principle and if its hope of having Roosevelt for a presidential candidate next year should be realized, it would have a new lease of life. We surmise however that he will leave this honor to some other big Moose, possibly Governor Johnson of California. Charles Sumner Bird might have been in line for the nomination but for his unexpected flop to the republican ranks. He has lost a great opportunity.

AFTER THE WAR

Edward A. Filene of Boston has constituted himself a prophet of evil to come after the war. For many months he has been telling the people of this country of what a terrible commercial cataclysm will come to us immediately after the war. He predicts that the nations of Europe will dump cheap products on our shores and that the people will try to escape from the tax laden countries recently engaged in war. Unfortunately for those countries, they will not be a menace to any nation after the war. Their financial and industrial resources will be exhausted and they will appeal to us for loans with which to rehabilitate their shattered industries. No doubt many of the people will want to come to these shores and some measures will be needed to prevent any excessive influx. That can be easily remedied. If there is any danger from the cause of which Mr. Filene is apprehensive, that too can be easily taken care of. Hence there is no cause for alarm. There should be a non-partisan tariff commission to deal with such questions as they come up. Congress can handle them only in a very unsatisfactory manner because there is always the conflicting interests of tariff and anti-tariff, political parties and other influences calculated to prevent a proper settlement.

It seems that all political parties are agreed upon the necessity of a merchant marine, but not upon how we should secure it. They are equally agreed that the federal government should deal with the question of unemployment and the distribution of the immigrants where they are most needed. In the past they have been dumped on the eastern cities without any regard to the chances of employment or whether their settlement there would interfere with existing conditions. There is here a great opportunity for beneficial work in the proper direction of the immigrants reaching our shores for the coming years. Each and all of these problems can be properly met by a democratic administration so that there is no need of presaging evil days and spreading gloomy forebodings on purely imaginary grounds.

DISEASES OVERCOME

One of the doctors of Harvard university after returning from a visit to the trenches on the western front asserts that lockjaw and typhoid fever have been completely overcome as a result of the use of specific serum provided for their prevention. He states that out of 17,000 men injured

ed for typhoid there were but two deaths. Typhus has been the great scourge of military camps in past wars including the Spanish-American war in which the death rate among the United States soldiers was quite heavy. Thanks to medical research typhus has been overcome and in the European war, undoubtedly the worst that ever scourged the earth, the almost complete absence of typhoid is quite remarkable.

In the European war, too, the surgeons are making great progress as might be expected, from the many thousands of wounded they have to treat. The Harvard doctor referred to relates a case where a fragment of shell passed through a man's body entering his right breast and passing out near his spine; yet the man, a first strong fellow, recovered so as to feel but slight effect of his wound. There are wonderful feats of surgery performed in the hospitals and the percentage of the wounded who recover would be vastly greater but for the weakness due to loss of blood on the battlefield as in the heat of battle little attention is given the wounded until there comes a lull in the fighting that offers an opportunity to gather up the fallen.

POLICE PROTECTION NEEDED

The highways of this state must be cleared of hoodlums, bandits and drunken chauffeurs. The number of fatal accidents on the highways of this state during the last few months is simply appalling. Something must be done to stop speed madness and the use of the automobile by highwaymen and drunken drivers. It is not an uncommon occurrence for a driver to run over a child or a man and pass on without waiting to see what damage resulted. If the victim in such a case could send a bullet to overtake the fleeing marauder most people would say it served him right. In the majority of cases, however, the culprits escape without leaving any clue to their identity.

In the town of Sandwich recently a party of autoists ran down a motorcyclist, killing him almost instantly and wounding another man. This is but one of many such cases of recent occurrence. It is time the state police adopted some method of suppressing the rowdism, robbery and murder that for some time have rendered the highways of this state extremely dangerous for public travel.

GERMANY'S DISAVOWAL

Germany has come down on the Arabic case. She has shown a sincere desire not to break with the United States. The Arabic note complies with every demand made by President Wilson. That is sufficient. The German government gives further assurance that liners will not be sunk by submarines without warning and an opportunity for the passengers and crew to escape unless the said liners attempt to escape or give battle.

That is all President Wilson has asked. The imperial government will pay whatever indemnity may be assessed. No government could go further.

PROSPERITY HERE

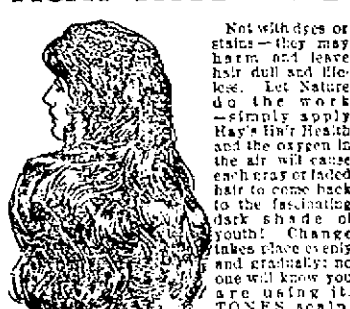

With all our mills and factories working steadily, with the strike of the United States Cartridge Co. settled, with new buildings being erected for the extension of that company's plant and with everybody who wants work now employed, prosperity has certainly struck our city. There is every indication that the coming winter will be a very prosperous one for Lowell as there is at present no indication of any industrial trouble that would interfere with the work of any of our factories.

SUBURBAN DAY

Suburban day yesterday brought a large influx of people from the surrounding towns and it is safe to say that all found many attractions not only in the holiday attire of our city but in the splendid window displays and the inviting bargains offered by the stores.

People who bring star artists to Lowell will probably learn from the McCormack concert that $3 is too

Of all the weapons of industrial warfare the most unjust is the sympathy strike which in order to compel one of the parties in conflict to give up the fight punishes a third party who has no connection with the trouble and against whom there is no charge.

We have had so much talk about our preparedness for the past year that by this time we should be ready to meet any band of raiders on the Mexican border.

REDUCE INTEREST RATES

COMPTROLLER WILLIAMS DEFENDS EFFORTS TO FORCE BANKERS TO REDUCE CHARGE

FRANKFORT, Ky., Oct. 7.—John Skelton Williams, comptroller of the currency, defended yesterday before the Kentucky Bankers' association his efforts to force national banks to reduce their charges to borrowers during the days of stress in the financial and business world which followed the outbreak of the European war.

Of the 7615 national banks in the country, Mr. Williams declared, 1020 have sent in detailed reports showing that they have received an average of ten per cent or more on loans. He cited, without giving names, instances in which the rate ran up to forty, sixty, one hundred per cent. In one case—that of a woman who borrowed $3.50 for six days—she said the bank charged one dollar, or 2400 per cent.

"These banks," said Mr. Williams, "are authorized by the government. To an extent at least, they have behind them the sanction, the prestige and the protection of the great American nation—and lending $3.50 for six days to a washerwoman or a laborer or a farmer's wife, at 2400 per cent."

"As somebody once said of drug-gists' profits on powdered chalk, it is the range of percentage into larceny from the person. Three hundred per cent will make anarchists silently, faster than all the I. W. W. apostles who can brawl. When national banks chartered by the government disappoint and deprive of its just reward, and stimulate and fertilize the soil for a fearful crop of disaster, we cannot excuse ourselves or make others believe that it is right or safe for banks to charge 100 per cent a year."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' pure Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, have been discovered. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a delicate, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping, no "sawing" of these little sugar-coated, chocolate tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then, or a "black" stool, or a "black" tongue, or a "black" liver and are constipated, you'll find sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep regular. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O.

while the producing people about them are kept poor. I know of such banks. I do not intend to stand for them if I can help it. The country will not stand for them."

Mr. Williams said he invited separate investigation of his actions or the conduct of his office. "A majority of the national banks are now conducting their business on a high and honorable plan and are charging fair and reasonable rates on loans," Mr. Williams said. He predicted that well-thought out, carefully constructed, conservative system of rural credits for the development of agriculture would come presently and said that in the meantime he expected to do all possible to protect borrowers of all grades against rapacity. He asked the co-operation of all banks further to improve conditions.

The figures he quoted, Mr. Williams said, were taken from the reports of national banks, not pawn-brokers or recognized money sharks. "These banks know," he said, "and you and I know, that such rates are disreputable and without excuse, whatever the security for the loans may be. The bank that lends at such rates is destroying its constituency and it is the nature of things committing slow but sure suicide. Some reports from the south and west, the northwest and the southwest, especially in the wheat and cotton sections of the southwest, are blood-curdling. They are like stories from darkest Russia, of the oppressions inflicted upon the peasantry. The report received at the comptroller's office shows indisputably that in some states and sections, farmers and especially small farmers have been subjected to extortion and exactions which the average man would consider impossible in this enlightened age."

Mr. Williams devoted much of his time to answering criticisms of his action in regard to lower interest rates by Senator Weeks, of Massachusetts, in a recent speech before Michigan bankers. He declared Senator Weeks had said that the banker himself was the man to determine interest rates, and in reply read a list of banks which showed an average rate of more than ten per cent. It included two banks in Illinois, six in Minnesota, two in Missouri, twenty-three in Georgia, six in Florida, twenty-one in Alabama, two in Louisiana, three hundred and fifteen in Texas, seventeen in Arkansas, three in Tennessee, ninety in North Dakota, twenty-five in South Dakota, eighteen in Nebraska, five in Kansas, thirty-eight in Montana, fourteen in Wyoming, thirty-seven in Colorado, twenty-five in New Mexico, three hundred in Oklahoma, twelve in Washington, ten in Oregon, thirteen in California, two in Utah, one in Nevada and thirty-three in Idaho. "In one southwestern state," said Mr. Williams, "161 banks reported they charged a maximum rate of interest from 15 to 24 per cent; sixty-seven banks a maximum between twenty-five and sixty per cent; twenty-two banks a maximum between 60 and 100 per cent; eighteen between one hundred and two hundred per cent and eight between two hundred and two thousand per cent. 'Most of these disgraceful rates,' said the comptroller, 'were for comparatively small loans.' The legal rate in the state, he pointed out, was six per cent and the maximum authorized by special contract, ten per cent."

Mr. Williams reviewed the financial situation through the first year of the European war. He said that this country had not only avoided financial crash but had wiped out the floating debt of $350,000,000 due to Europe January 1st, 1915, and absorbed between 750 and 1,000 millions of dollars of American securities that were held abroad and now in condition to help finance the whole world at the conclusion of the war. He presented as a fact that the United States was now in position to buy back the American securities held in foreign lands, if they should be offered, but that "Europe has come to realize that America is the most stable country on earth" and that investors there, being the American securities as likely to be the best real values, "as the American dollar has become the world's standard of value because it commands the word's faith."

Giving figures to substantiate this assurance, the comptroller said, "The estimated gold supply of the United States in gold coin and bullion is more than two million dollars, of which state and national banks hold one billion and the federal reserve banks and the treasury 810 millions, leaving more than four hundred millions in the pockets of the people. At no time in recorded history have the banks of any country held such resources as the banks of this country hold today." Deposits of all the banks in the United States, including trust companies, had, in the past five years, increased at the average rate of about a billion dollars a year, he said.

The income of the people of the United States over the expenses of living and available for development and investment amounts to 5,000 million dollars per annum, Mr. Williams said, and he placed the total at 30,000 millions a year. He said the total wealth of the U. S. is now estimated at 210 billions as compared with 76 billions in 1911. 55 billions, the total wealth of France in 1905, and 105 billions, the total wealth of the whole British Empire, including the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, India and South Africa, by the latest available computation, that of 1903.

Mr. Williams cautioned his hearers that the time may be near when this nation will need its resources and "when even our unprecedented and unequalled strength will be taxed."

"At the close of this great war," he said, "it will be our task to finance the world. We may be the one affluent power. We may have to bear the burden of providing for our own defense. We have learned from observation and from comparison forced upon us how inadequately prepared we are. We are asleep among hungry and armed nations in a home crowded with gold and food, with our doors wide open and not even a gun on the premises. We will have to take care of ourselves and of other governments and of nations abroad. The sure foundation not only of our financial and business structure, but for the government and civilization itself, for safety in war and growth in peace, is the prosperity and contentment of the individual."

KILLED AT FAIR

Ballooning Fell 800 Ft. to His Death at Brockton Yesterday

BROCKTON, Oct. 7.—Forty thousand persons at the Brockton fair grounds yesterday afternoon gazed in horror-stricken while Elmer Olson, a balloonist at the fair, plunged at the speed of a rifle bullet 800 feet to his death, when one of the parachutes he used in making his descent failed to open.

Both Olson's legs were broken and he sustained frightful internal injuries from the fall. Patrolman Charles Grow reached him a few minutes after he struck the ground, in the woods off Linwood street. Olson gasped once as the policeman approached and died.

The balloonist was only 22 years of age. He had been employed at fairs in New England during the last five weeks, previous to which he had roomed at 24 Shawmut ave. Boston.

Olson started his flight at 4:25 yesterday afternoon, when the biggest crowd of the day was at the fair. His act was a descent by means of seven parachutes, in each of which he came down a part of the way. Trouble was experienced with the parachutes earlier in the day, when Bert Eager, of 207 West Springfield street, Boston, made an ascension. He found one of the parachutes defective and left it with the balloon. Olson also found his first parachute unsuitable for use and left it with the balloon. The second and third parachutes opened according to schedule, and at the usual time he cut loose the fourth.

There are four sets of ropes on each parachute, each set comprising six ropes. When he put away with the fourth parachute the ropes of three of these sets broke or became loosened and the parachute opened only quarter way.

The three remaining parachutes fell into Olson's lap. From the ground Prof. Flowers could see that something was wrong with the parachute, and he fired a cannon twice as a signal to Olson that he was in danger and that he should use one of the other parachutes for the rest of the descent.

Drops Like a Plummet
Olson, however, was evidently unable to make any of the other parachutes ready. He dropped 800 feet like a plummet, in full view of the big crowd.

Hundreds of persons ran from the fair grounds to the woods where he was dashed to death. Fully 1000 remained near the emergency hospital on the fair grounds, expecting that he would be brought there.

Eager, who had been working with Olson, said after the accident that he will make his usual trips today and Friday. Harold Cates of Newburyport, who has figured in three fatal balloon accidents, will make an ascension today as well.

Olson was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Olson of Illinois. Their home is in a small town there, and when they have been located his body will be sent to them. He was a member of the Boston Lodge of Moose.

RESIGNATION ACCEPTED

SUCCESSOR TO T. ST. JOHN GAFFNEY, CONSUL GENERAL AT MUNICH, HAS NOT BEEN NAMED. WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The resignation of T. St. John Gaffney, American consul general at Munich, requested by the state department because of unbecoming utterances, was received yesterday and accepted by cable. Accompanying the resignation was a cablegram bearing the names of about a half dozen American residents of Munich which stated that Mr. Gaffney had performed his duties in a manner, which, as far as they could see was satisfactory. Mr. Gaffney's successor has not been named.

CONGRATULATIONS POUR INTO THE WHITE HOUSE

Pres. Wilson Announces His Engagement to Mrs. Galt—Marriage to Take Place in December

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(Congratulatory telegrams from friends and relatives of President Wilson today following the announcement of his engagement to Mrs. Norman Galt of Washington.

The fact that the president of the United States on whom the eyes of the world have frequently been focused in the last few months of the European war had decided to marry again, gave the national capital a topic of absorbing interest which, for a moment, overshadowed all questions of international or domestic politics.

The news came as a surprise to all but a few intimate friends who knew that the friendship of the president for Mrs. Galt had developed into an intimacy that presaged marriage. That Mrs. Galt had become a companion of the president was known, however, in official and society circles, because she appeared frequently with him on motor rides and at baseball games. Close friends who watched the friendship develop expressed today their pleasure at its culmination, not only because of the personal happiness of the president but because it meant a change from a life of loneliness and unvaried occupation to an atmosphere of helpful companionship. His incessant labor alone in the White House during the period of mourning had affected his spirits. When he began to

Abused Wife in Court—Rival Bakers Fought—Other Cases Heard

After beating his wife into unconsciousness with a piece of furniture last Sunday, George Cummings disappeared and left her lying on the kitchen floor where she was found a few minutes later by neighbors who were summoned to the house by children who witnessed the act, according to the testimony offered before Judge Enright in the local court this morning. Cummings was charged with assault and battery on his wife, Carrie G., and pleaded guilty. The fact that his wife needed his help to support their three minor children prevented the man from getting a direct sentence and the case was continued for one month for investigation. The wife on the stand unfolded a pitiful tale of ill-treatment at the hands of her husband.

That he was followed on the street by his wife and called "Dago Frank" and "Gyp the Blood" when he left the house was the story told by the husband. He said he had always supported his children and made a good husband and father. Mrs. Cummings was recalled to the witness stand and said that a few weeks ago her husband took a shot gun in his hands and dared her to enter the room in which he stood. He held the gun so it could not be used for evidence, she claimed.

Judge Enright advised a reconciliation and continued the case for one month.

WAR SHARES GAINED

Substantial Recoveries Made at Opening of the Market Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Yesterday's turbulent reaction in prices was largely reversed in today's early trading. The ease with which substantial recoveries were made suggested that the market had been oversold in the preceding session as a result of the precautionary attitude taken by the stock exchange authorities.

Many of the more speculative war shares showed gains of 1 to 3 points at the outset, and a more substantial foundation for general improvement was seen in the further advance of representative railways, particularly Union Pacific, Great Northern, New York Central, Reading and Norfolk & Western. Copper and motor also showed underlying strength. Inspiration Copper making the new high quotation of 47 and some of the automobile issues rising 2 to 4 points.

Bethlehem Steel was again the foremost feature, an initial quotation of 69 representing a recovery of 11 points and surpassing its previous record by 3 points. Later the stock advanced to 42.

United States Steel, which held its own in yesterday's upheaval better than any other issue of its class, rose a substantial 5 points to 114, with further progress on transactions ranging from 1500 to 5000 shares.

American Beet Sugar opened at an advance of 5 1/2 to 65. In response to Washington advices indicating a repeal of the free sugar tariff provision.

Reactions of 2 to 3 1/2 points occurred in some of the railway stocks at 11 o'clock but railways made further headway, "Sox" being the only exception with a decline of almost 4 points.

Sales in the first hour of 400,000 shares were more diversified than recently.

Bethlehem Steel extended its gain to 42 with an advance in the preferred, Baldwin Locomotive and Crucible Steel were listed 6 to 5 points over yesterday's closing prices, and Coppers advanced 7 to 10 points in some of the copper convertible bonds.

Reactions of 1 to 2 points in other parts of the list, but the market in general continued buoyant, with U. S. Steel at 90 1/2. Sales up to 1 o'clock amounted to over 1,000,000 shares.

NEW RECORDS MADE

BETHLEHEM STEEL, ROSE TO 40—SUBSTANTIAL RECOVERIES

FEATURED MID-SESSION

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Few traces of yesterday's heavy movement were visible at the opening of today's market. War shares rose sharply, General Electric, Baldwin Locomotive, Pressed Steel Car, Studebaker, General Motors, and others. Bethlehem Steel opened up 9 points, new high record of 40 1/2 and Inspiration Copper also made a new record at 47, up 1 3/4. Railways became increasingly active, New Haven, Lehigh Valley and Union Pacific leading a host of more. Later Western Union regained some of its recent prominence, advancing 2 1/4 at 129 3/4 and U. S. Steel rose a fraction over yesterday's closing.

Dealings in the first hour were mostly on an ascending scale, although some speculators reacted under realizing conditions. A noted strength of railways was a reassuring feature, and Bethlehem Steel's further advance to 40 1/2 called renewed attention to its commanding position. Later, Pittsburgh Coal common and preferred, United Railways, Philadelphia company and obscure industrial and utilities rose to higher levels. Westinghouse, backward at first, rose 6 to 135 1/2 and U. S. Steel 15 1/2 to 80. At midday a general rise was under way. Bonds were strong.

Bethlehem Steel's rise to 40 1/2 and further substantial recoveries of yesterday's losses in the Baldwin Locomotive and Crucible Steel, featured the mid-session, with greater activity and strength in copper.

General Electric, of dullness the market became active again, copper constituting the chief features. The closing was strong.
